Son in Strange Romance Hunts His Father

Glynn Hicks, 14-year-old farm boy, who came to Atlanta to find his father and the means to educate himself, looks wistful as he runs down a vague clue. Patrolman Durrell Fuller, who, with other members of the police department, is assisting him in his search, stands by.

FBI HEAD PLAYED FOR PAROLE TALKS

May Be Great Officer,
but He's No Philosopher,
Speaker Here Says.

J. Edgar Hoover may be the world's greatest policeman, but he does not understand social implications of crime and has no right to leave his proper sphere of activity and criticize the country's parole systems, Edwin Gill, North Carolina parole commissioner, said here last night.

Speaking before the final session of a conference of probation and parole officers, Gill referred to a speech here Monday by Hugh M. Clegg, first assistant of the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in which he said that parole was "a beautiful theory."

"He's No Philosopher,"
"Hoover has done a wonderful job," Gill said, "but he's no philosopher and there are many things he doesn't understand. He can't make a good speech unless he's denouncing somebody and we're it."

"I don't wish to be misunderstood. Law enforcement is vital.
But Mr. Hoover should understand that there are many phases of the crime problem which can't be solved by tear gas, machine guns and chemical analyses of blood. I say all credit to him for what he has done in building up the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

"The Governor's right to grant parole, however, was admitted.
Jury Resolution.
The grand jury resolution said that every effort on the part of courts to stop racketeering will be nullified if the Governor and Commission release these persons to again prey upon the people."

The Governor and the Prison Commission should know that racketeers are professional criminals.

What protection can the citizens have when racketeers are in-dulgenced?

Dad Unaware He's a Father Sought by Son

Youngster Arrives in Atlanta in Compliance With Mother's Last Wish.

By JACK SPALDING III.
The tale of a 14-year-old farm boy who came to Atlanta to find a father who probably doesn't know he exists, was unfolded yesterday in the police station.

The boy, Glynn Hicks, of Resaca, tackled the city with 50 cents in his pocket in an effort to find his father and "make a lawyer" of himself in compliance with his mother's death-bed request.

One of his first acts in town was to spend half his fortune on a haircut, so he would "look nice" when his father came for him; the father whose name he isn't sure of.

The first seven years of Glynn
Hicks' life were spent on the small Gordon county farm of his mother and grandmother. Seven years ago his mother died, and on her death-bed told him the tale of his parentage—how she had loved a teacher in the Sonorville school, and how he had left her before he knew of their child, and came to Atlanta. According to his mother, he was a "nice, smart man," who would want his son to be educated and to be a lawyer.

So Glynn Hicks started to school, and two years later his grandmother died. He lived with his mother's parents.

5 BILLION TAX BILL SENT ROOSEVELT FOR HIS APPROVAL

Undistributed Profits Tax Levy Is Reduced to Tattered Remnant as Compromise Is Okayed.

89 CONGRESSMEN DISSENT IN VOTE

Capitol Gains Provisions
Also Changed; Leaders Predict Business Aid.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(P)—
The new tax bill, reducing the much-criticized undistributed profits tax to a tattered remnant of its self, received final congressional approval today.

The house adopted—242 to 89—
a compromise conference report.
The measure now goes to the White House.

The bill, re-enacting much of the existing law, is expected to yield $5,000,000,000 annually. It exempts corporations with incomes of less than $25,000 from the tax on undistributed profits.
Corporations with income above that figure would pay an income tax of 16 1/2 per cent if all profits were disbursed to its stockholders and of 19 per cent if all profits were retained.

Gains Tax Provision.
Instead of the present graduated tax on capital gains, the bill would impose the regular income tax rates upon gains from assets held no longer than 18 months. A flat 20 per cent would be levied upon gains from assets held from 18 to 24 months and a 15 per cent rate would be applied to gains from assets held longer than two years.

The bill also increases the tax on hard liquor from $2 to $2.25 a gallon.

While the senate struck out the undistributed profits tax in its entirety, the house had approved a bill retaining the remnant finally approved today. A delicate conference situation developed between the two houses, in which President Roosevelt intervened in defense of the principle of the tax.
A compromise retaining the house version on the profits tax and the senate attitude toward the capital gains levy was finally worked out. This, approved by the senate on Monday, was brought before the house today.

"Fatal Mistake."
"I think it is a fatal mistake that there is anything left of the un-distributed profits tax," said Treadway. "I thoroughly approved of the attitude of the senate."

Tracing the history of the bill, Representative McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, said congress had been "assured that if the un-distributed profits tax were modified, it would act as a stimulant to business." Such assurances, he said, had come from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and other business sources.

"This bill," he added, "accomplished that objective."

EQUAL WPA PAY IN NORTH, SOUTH RELIEF BILL ISSUE

Tarver Will Introduce Amendment Barring the Wide Differentials Now Existing in Wage Scales.

NEW YORK: $40; GEORGIA BUT $21

Almost Double Is Being Paid in All Categories, Congressman Asserts.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—When the amendment stage of the President's $500,000,000 "pump priming" bill is reached tomorrow by the house, Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Georgia, will press for the adoption of his amendment which provides that "no differentials in rates of pay for persons engaged upon projects under WPA exceeding ten per centum of the maximum shall be fixed as between different states or areas of the same general types in the several states."

Explaining the reasons why his amendment should be adopted, Judge Tarver, on the floor of the house today, cited figures from WPA officials' reports showing that in Region 1, which includes
New England, New York and Illinois, the monthly pay of agricultural workers averages $40, while in Georgia the same class of workers receive only $21. In the larger cities of the country, he said, $50 a month is paid for unskilled workers, while in Georgia $33 is paid. Skilled workers in New York received as high as $85, but in Georgia the wage is around $38.

REPUBLICANS ASSAIL
"PUMP-PRIMING" BILL
WASHINGTON, May 11.—(P)—
Republican denunciations of the Roosevelt spending-lending program drew from Representative Maverick, Democrat, Texas, the reply today that "violent criticism of the President" does nothing to solve economic problems.

Defending the measure as "much better" than previous relief bills, the Texas said the most vehement critics had no proper program of their own to offer.

He spoke after Republicans warned colleagues there were serious dangers in the pending bill, which would appropriate some $3,000,000,000, major part of the $4,500,000,000 program of loans and direct expenditures to combat the depression.

A Republican minority report,
prepared by Representatives
Taber and Bacon, of New York, and Wigglesworth, of Massachusetts, members of the appropriation committee, presented a counter-program of 12 points. Among them was:

"Administration of relief by a federal bi-partisan board aided by local bi-partisan boards, federal grants to be limited to 80 per cent of each state's relief needs."

They also demanded: An inquiry into charges that WPA money has been used politically;
outright repeal of the undistributed profits tax, and end to "harassing restrictions and assaults on business," revision of the Wagner labor act to promote capital-labor
"harmony" and other steps.

Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, said the country was "in the midst of the Franklin D. Roosevelt depression," and that the pending bill offered no remedy for it. He said the measure was comparable to dop-ping a patient instead of curing him. Business, he said, had been held back by the administration's own "policies and lack of policies."

He asserted President Roosevelt could reverse the trend "without spending one cent on pump priming"; by taking "proper steps to instill confidence in business."

ARTILLERY QUELLS POLITICAL OUTLAWS

German Resentment Is Blamed for Rebellion
By Senator Key Pittman

(Copyright, 1938, by United Press.)
RIO DE JANEIRO (By Telephone to New York), May 11.—
A Fascist uprising against President Getulio Vargas' six-month-government was crushed today with a loss of at least 20 lives after bloody fighting in which the president, his wife and two daughters joined in defense of their besieged Guanabara palace.

Five of the dead were loyal troops and police.

Chief of Police Felinto Mueller said the death toll in the unsuccessful coup, in which dissident navy elements, chiefly marines, joined members of the outlawed Integralist Action, might reach 50.

Green Shirts Jailed.
Hundreds of marines and civilians, some wearing the green-shirt uniform of the Integralists, were jailed in a general round-up of suspects which began when the abortive coup collapsed.

The uprising started shortly after midnight, a few hours after a security tribunal had freed several army and civilian leaders arrested last month as suspects in an alleged plot to overthrow Vargas.
The insurgents seized the ministry of marines and a revolt started in the palace guard.

The president, hearing the gunfire, armed himself and members of his family, and ordered machine guns posted at strategic points within the palace. A small group of loyal guards were in the palace at the time of the outbreak, and the commander sent for reinforcements.

tion but I also say he should stick to his own line."

Other speakers at the closing session were George Lewis Bailes, of Birmingham, Ala., who spoke on the attitude of prosecuting officers toward pardons and paroles, and Joseph W. Sanford, acting warden of the Atlanta penitentiary, who spoke on federal prison practices.

Vance E. Thomas, chief parole officer of the Atlanta penitentiary, told conference delegates that convicts can be taught to resume their place in society after they have been released from prison but not before.

Many persons believe, he said, that prison education, vocational training and courses in citizenship can "correct and remake" prisoners.

"But what can prisons do toward educating a prisoner in one or two years when he has spent 20 to 40 years gaining information or misinformation?" he asked.

Jacksonville Selected.
The talk by Thomas was featured on the morning program of the conference, which also included election of officers and the naming of Jacksonville as the 1939 conference city.

Bruce Airey, of Montgomery, was re-elected president of the organization and five other officers also were named to serve another year. J. C. Lanier, of Jacksonville, was chosen second vice president to succeed L. F. Chapman, superintendent of the Florida state prison at Raiford.

Those re-elected were Edwin Gill, of Raleigh, N. C., first vice president; C. C. Menzies, of Nashville, Tenn., third vice president; J. F. Thames, superintendent of the Mississippi state prison, fourth vice president; Herbert N. Felton, of Columbia, S. C., secretary, and Downing Musgrove, executive secretary to Governor Rivers, treasurer.

Georgia Praised.
Praise for the progress made in Georgia under the leadership of Governor Rivers was voiced by Richard Chappell, of Washington, acting federal supervisor of probation, who said that no persons should be discharged from prison except by the parole route.

"Parole, properly administered, offers the best possible method of returning a prisoner to society," he said, "while probation, again if properly supervised, can stop the social waste of sending casual violators to prisons."

Lax systems of probation and parole were pointed out by Edward B. Everett, federal probation officer in Atlanta, who warned that too many are controlled by politics and thereby cause public criticism.

S. C. "Railroading."
A plea for better co-operation on the part of judges and law enforcement officers in South Carolina was made by E. N. Cantwell, of the South Carolina parole board, who said there is "too much railroading" in his state.

Better public understanding of conditions which are responsible for producing criminals will do much toward solving the crime problem, J. S. Diver, president of the Boys' Home Association, of Jacksonville, told the conference delegates.

Proper training should begin in primary schools, he said, so that children will be given the proper start in life, adding that "this can be done at a fraction of the cost of caring for a convict."

Importance of the co-operation of school authorities in spotting delinquent children was stressed by Mrs. Edna Hennessy, Tampa, Fla., probation officer, who said that the prevention of juvenile delinquency is a major problem.

Izaak Walton Home, Now Museum, Burns

SHALLOWFORD, Staffordshire, England, May 11.—(UP) Fire today destroyed the birthplace of Izaak Walton, a thatched, half-timbered cottage now a museum.

Only an armchair of the famous fisherman and a few small relics were saved. Firemen ran hose lines to the Sow river where Walton used to fish.

There were none left to turn to but Uncle Grady Hicks, a tenant farmer with two small children of his own. But Uncle Vester had left him $50. So he paid his board with that, and finished the seventh grade at the Sonora school. A month ago, Grady Hicks lost his right leg when he was hit by a train, and in Glynn's words is "on the county."

Glynn can find plenty of places, he said, where he can work for his board, but he wishes to fulfill his mother's last wish and "make a lawyer" of himself.

The trip was not an impulse, but the product of careful planning. His friend Mr. Lewis, who operates a "pitcher show" in near-by Calhoun, told him he saw his father two or three years ago in Atlanta.

"If my father doesn't want me," Glynn sighed, "I wish anyhow he would send me money for an education."

U. S. STEEL TO EXPAND.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—Expenditure of $80,000,000 for plant expansion and modernization is contemplated by the United States Steel Corporation this year, the company announced today.

The company announced today it is registering a $100,000,000 bond issue with the Securities Commission.

The granite, Turner advised, was encountered at a depth of from 4,347 to 4,378 feet and that no gas nor oil was discovered prior to reaching rock. The Pan-American group, Turner said, is considering no immediate plans for further development in this area.

OIL WELL DRILLERS HIT GRANITE, QUIT

Workmen Begin Dismantling Rig at 4,375-Foot Shaft in South Georgia.

OFFERMAN, Ga., May 11.—(AP) Drilling operations on a test oil well near here ceased today, and unofficial reports said granite had been struck at 4,375 feet.

Drillers began at once dismantling the rig which began operations April 2. Officials at the well declined to comment, and there was no indication whether another test well would be drilled in the vicinity.

In Atlanta, Captain Garland Peyton, director of the state division of mines and mining, said he was unaware operations had stopped, and added officials of the American Oil Company, a Pan-American Oil Company subsidiary, had not been in communication with his department.

When drilling was begun at the well known as Adams-McCaskill No. 1, the State Division of Mines and Mining disclosed that more than 2,000,000 acres in south Georgia was under oil lease to Pan-American and other major oil companies.

The well, situated in a low, cut-over area near here, is about 15 miles northeast of Waycross.

Test wells have been drilled in various parts of Georgia in previous years without success. The deepest previous well was approximately 3,300 feet.

The Blackshear Times will say tomorrow that efforts of the Pan-American Company to locate oil at the site have been abandoned. The Times received a telegram from E. R. Turner, general manager of the Pan-American Production Company, in which the official states: "The well is abandoned in granite."

The granite, Turner advised, was encountered at a depth of from 4,347 to 4,378 feet and that no gas nor oil was discovered prior to reaching rock. The Pan-American group, Turner said, is considering no immediate plans for further development in this area.

Girl, 4, Dislodges Tonsils With Stick

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 11. (P)—Four-year-old Betty Luttrell was recovering today from a self-performed, though accidental tonsillectomy.

A stick jabbed into her throat in play left her tonsils hanging by a thread of tissue. A surgeon finished the job.

leaves a community at the mercy of criminals.

"We protest against any interference with the execution of the sentence in this case and future similar cases and order that a copy of this resolution of the grand jury be sent to the Governor and Prison Commission in the nature of a petition and protest."

Review Prepared.

Meanwhile, Senator Lindsay was preparing a review of the hearing on the application by Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews to revoke suspension of Moore's sentence. He indicated it probably would take a week to prepare the case for presentation to the penal board in the pending application for parole.

Moore, under the order, will remain at Fulton tower until expiration of the 30-day stay, or until outcome of the parole hearing.

The grand jury, which in its resolution said it had been "struggling with the problem of racketeers in an effort to put a stop to them," continued its special session on police graft until mid-afternoon and then adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Half a dozen witnesses were questioned yesterday, including a Forsyth street tap room waitress. Special investigators and three county policemen were given subpoenas for about 20 additional witnesses for a special session Monday. Andrews said the jury would stick largely to routine business at tomorrow's regular session.

7,000 TO INSPECT FARMING EXHIBITS

'Ag' College Campus Tour To Feature Rally Today in Athens.

ATHENS, Ga., May 11.—(P)—More than 7,000 farmers, representing all sections of Georgia are expected to gather here tomorrow for the University of Georgia College of Agriculture's annual livestock and equipment day.

Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the college of agriculture, said today he had received word that the Hartwell Rotary Club will attend in a body, 100 per cent strong. A large group of Kiwanians from Washington, Wilkes county, had previously expressed its intention of forming a motorcade for the trip to Athens.

The complete program, announced today, list as the first event a motorcade tour of the campus, leaving Hardman hall at 10:30 o'clock, eastern standard time. After stopping briefly at the Extension building, the forestry school, and the new girls' dormitory, all completed in the past year, the motorcade, headed by Dr. M. P. Jarnagin, of the animal husbandry department, will wind its way past the beautiful green fields of permanent pasture and the 50-acre field of oats, on to the college farm.

At the college farm, a demonstration in the use of the latest hay-making machinery will be staged. Farmers will be shown how they can produce more hay of a better quality.

Prior to the barbecue at 1:30 o'clock, greetings will be extended to the visitors by President Harmon Caldwell, of the university. Short talks also will be made by Dean Chapman, Dr. Jarnagin, Chancellor S. V. Sanford, R. H. Driftmiller, head of the Department of Agricultural Engineering, and Frank W. Peikert, assistant professor of agricultural engineering.

Immediately after dinner, Professors Driftmiller and Peikert will stage a demonstration of farm machinery used for plowing, harrowing, tilling, planting and cultivating. This will be followed by demonstrations in harvesting and feed processing.

The final event on the program is an exhibit of Georgia-raised mules, all bred on the college farm.

Other livestock owned by the college also will be on display, including fine dairy herds of Jerseys, Guernseys and Holsteins, and flocks of sheep.

Gray Chieftain To Greet Yanks At Gettysburg

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—(P)—The Confederate veterans' commander in chief—92-year-old John Milton Claypool—changed his mind today and decided to attend the final reunion of "the Blue and the Gray" at Gettysburg, Pa.

A retired Christian minister here, Claypool will lead the diminishing ranks of about 500 veterans of the south to the famous Civil War battle scene, June 29 to July 6. It will mark the 75th anniversary of the battle.

"Since the Lord has put up with the Yankees all this time," declared Claypool, "I guess I can also put up with them for a few days."

RADIO IS PROPOSED FOR STATE PATROL

Harris Suggests Equipment to Aid Highway Officers in Work.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 11.—(P)—Georgia's house of representatives speaker, Roy V. Harris, said today he would ask radio communication for the state highway patrol cars, even if a legislative appropriation is necessary to cover the expense.

"If they (highway patrol officers) cannot provide radio service out of their current funds, I intend asking the next legislature to provide funds for the service," Speaker Harris said.

He said he would confer with highway officials on the possibility of the radio equipment on his next visit to Atlanta, probably within the next day or two.

Mr. Harris explained that while radio communication is not necessary in counties like Richmond, which have efficient county patrols, it is needed in small-town counties where there are not radio-equipped cars to answer sudden summonses.

He said he had formulated no definite plan, but that he had given the subject considerable study. He expressed the belief that a plan could be worked out under which such cities as Augusta, Savannah, Macon and Columbus might re-broadcast signals to state troopers within their sending areas.

Police officials here have told Speaker Harris that ordinary city police calls have been received by cruisers as far as 40 miles from their home station.

"The should be some way," the house leader said, "to notify state patrolmen to be on the lookout for escaping hit-and-run drivers, fleeing bandits and similar persons who are much easier to catch before they reach some secluded hide-out far from the scenes of their crimes."

JAPAN SEIZES AMOY IN SOUTHERN CHINA

Amoy said a detachment of United States marines landed from the Asheville on Kulangu to protect Americans and American property.

The same sources said the Japanese were in complete possession of Amoy.

Fifty thousand Chinese refugees fled to the foreign settlements to escape bitter fighting in the narrow winding streets of Amoy.

The sudden attack was Japan's first thrust into south China. Chinese declared it was aimed to prevent the flow of munitions, men and supplies from the south to central China where Japan's war machine is stalemated.

(Amoy, situated 200 miles north of Canton and Hongkong, furnishes a base for military operations against the Canton-Hankow railroad, over which much of China's military supplies have been moving. The railroad is about 200 miles inland from Amoy.)

Earlier, Chinese reported their forces had counter-attacked in an attempt to drive Japanese from the outskirts of Amoy.

Searchlights from Japanese warships stabbed the darkness as Japanese bluejackets and China's Cantonese detachments fought through narrow, winding streets for possession of the port.

The U. S. destroyer Edsall and cruiser Marblehead were reported on their way to the island.

Along with the dispatch, Amoy, Japanese announced they had renewed their general offensive on the central front. There Japanese have been trying since December to conquer the Lunghai railway area separating their North China and Yangtze river valley conquests.

GERMANY DENIED HELIUM BY ICKES

Roosevelt Keeps Hands Off; Eckener Is Crestfallen.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(P)—Germany apparently lost out in her bid for American helium today when Secretary Ickes, critic of Nazism and Fascism, stuck to his refusal to permit exports of the gas and President Roosevelt assumed a hands-off attitude.

White House attaches announced that Mr. Roosevelt could do nothing, because the law requires the unanimous consent of the munitions control board (of which Ickes is a member) before the Reich can get the non-inflammable gas to inflate its new trans-Atlantic Zeppelin.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, who has devoted much of his life to Zeppelin development, was keenly disappointed at today's developments. Here to try to get the gas for his German concern, he said:

"I am afraid it means the death sentence for commercial lighter-than-air craft."

WORKS BILL PLAN WILL AID GEORGIA

Provision Avoids Limit on Debt Rule; Tarver Insists on Inclusion.

Representative Umstead, of North Carolina, tried to have eliminated from the bill in committee, but which Tarver and a majority of the committee voted to sustain, provides that:

"In the event that, due to constitutional limitations, any state, territory, possession, political subdivision or other public body shall be unable to participate by way of loan and grant in the benefits of this title, the administrator, with the approval of the President, may advance moneys to any such public agency upon agreement by such public agency to pay back in annual installments, over a period of not to exceed 25 years, at least 55 per centum of the amount advanced with interest thereon for the period of amortization."

Georgia has a constitutional limitation which prevents borrowing more than 7 per cent of her taxable valuation.

Roosevelt's Proposal.

The President's message to congress on relief recommended that provision be made for the making of loans without interest up to and not to exceed 55 per cent of the cost of non-federal projects, the interest-free feature to be in lieu of the usual 45 per cent grant. The house committee, however, did not follow this recommendation, but provided for the type of loan in the above quoted provision.

The committee's provision makes it possible, where states or other public agencies, due to constitutional limitations, are unable to participate in the loan and grant benefits, for the administrator to advance them money for projects upon their agreement to pay back in annual installments 55 per cent of the amount advanced.

In order to carry out this proposal, the government can acquire land for the construction of a project and then either construct the project itself and lease the completed project to the public agency or advance funds to the public agency for such construction. In either case, the federal government would retain title to the project until the public agency has paid its share of the cost with amortized interest.

MACON POLICE AIDE SHOT DEAD ON DUTY

Killer Is Slain by Fellow Officers; Chief's Life Threatened.

MACON, Ga., May 11.—(P)—Acting Chief of Detectives J. M. Dopson was shot and killed here at noon today, and a negro, accused of firing the shot, also was shot by other officers.

The shooting occurred in an alley, less than a block from police headquarters, while Dopson, Detective J. L. McSwain, and others, were answering a police call. As McSwain got out of the car, a negro with a rifle opened fire. The car was riddled with bullets. Dopson was shot in the back and slumped over the wheel, dying.

The negro, listed as Max Josey, died after reaching the hospital. Police said he was shot by Motorcycle Officer Ben Ong and County Officer Walter Waldron, who also responded to the police radio call.

Josey, the officers said, had leveled his automatic 30-30 rifle at Police Chief Ben T. Watkins when the two officers fired.

Tip on Humming Birds Worth $5 To Housewife; 5 Others Get $1

The two humming birds which flew into a screen at the home of Mrs. Carroll B. McGaughey, Mount Vernon and Dunwoody roads, scored a bull's-eye for the housewife last week, causing her to win the first prize of $5 in photo-tip competition.

When Mrs. McGaughey saw the two small birds caught in the screen, she decided such a thing was unusual and was worth a picture, so she called The Constitution tip editor. Judges decided hers was the best picture idea phoned in during the week.

Five other persons who saw unusual picture ideas in other subjects will be awarded $1 each for calling the photo-tip editor. Two of the latter number also saw ideas in birds. They were James W. Pittman, of 736 Park street, who caught a strange-looking bird, which appeared to be a cross between a pigeon and a duck and Andrews Dutton, of 388 Coppenhill avenue, whose son, Calvin, 5, has a pet sparrow. A picture of Mr. Pittman's "what'sit" appeared on the same day as did one of "Sonny," the sparrow's nickname. Both tippers will receive a dollar.

Mrs. L. H. Lambert, of 574 East avenue, N. E., will be mailed $1 because she called about a "swinging" bull dog, owned by Harry Ginn, of 375 East avenue. Training of "Sniffy," a baby jackrabbit, earned $1 for Charles Dickens, of Gordon road.

A woman whose name and address has been misplaced, called The Constitution about Miss Mable Conser, who was photographed as she painted a house on Highland avenue, N. E. If the tipper will call The Constitution and identify herself, she will be awarded $1.

Candidate Files at End of First Term; Lists Qualifications.

Judge John B. Guerry, of the state court of appeals, yesterday became a candidate for re-election. He filed his qualifications with the state Democratic executive committee and paid the entry fee of $250.

Assistant City Attorney Bond Almond qualified as a candidate for the Fulton superior court in opposition to Judge John D. Humphries. Almond paid $250 to the state committee and the required additional $350 to J. Wilson Parker, secretary of the Fulton county Democratic executive committee.

Judge Guerry was elected to the court of appeals in 1932 and is completing his first term. He is a native of Quitman county and began practicing law at Mountzuma in 1908. He is a graduate of Mercer University and has held a number of important public offices, including the chairmanship of the Montezuma board of education, solicitor of the Macon county court and solicitor of the city court of Oglethorpe. There has been no indication of opposition to Judge Guerry's bid for re-election. Assistant City Attorney Almond is a former member of the general assembly and widely known in legal and fraternal circles in Atlanta.

SHIP CANAL BACKERS SEEK ACTION AT ONCE

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—Backers of the Florida ship canal made a last-minute drive today to force congressional action on the $200,000,000 waterway before adjournment.

They pinned their hopes on continued support from the house and harbor committee, which will vote tomorrow on a motion to ask that the long-debated canal be given a place on the calendar. If the motion carries, it will be referred to the rules committee to determine whether the canal will get consideration before the 75th congress ends.

(UP TO THE FULL MARK)

IF I FORGET TO CHECK IT—

WHEN you drive in my station, I'm going to remember to check your oil. We Shell dealers have agreed to this.

If we forget, just say, "Didn't you forget something?"—and we'll bring your crankcase up to the full mark with Golden Shell Oil. FREE!

Why the brainstorm? Well, we know we ought to keep your oil up to the full mark for safety's sake. Besides, we've got an oil that will do the job for your engine like never before. It's made for stop and go. About 10 times a day you shut off your engine. Your oil drains down in the crankcase.

When you start up again, engine parts grind together "dry" of lubrication until your oil gets up there. About 3/4 of all the wear on your engine comes in starting.

GOLDEN SHELL OIL LICKS THIS. It starts to flow instantly. And it's plenty tough to take the beating of high speed, too. Remember—there's no finer oil than Golden Shell at any price.

GOVERNMENT AS A MONOPOLY

It is generally understood that all necessary information for investigating monopolies is already in the files of the several government departments. And it is admitted by most authorities on the subject that existing anti-trust laws, if enforced, are entirely adequate to cope with any situation that might arise. It is not beyond the realm of probability, therefore, that a large portion of the money set aside for the pending probe into alleged monopolistic business will be diverted to political research instead of economic analysis.

The desirability of stamping out private monopoly, if such monopoly is found to exist, is not to be doubted. But it should be remembered that some industries, by their very nature, are monopolistic. Railroads, for example, are forms of accepted monopoly, but laws have been enacted to protect the people against abuse of this special power. And there are others. Monopolies, however, as a general rule, exist for the purpose of fixing and maintaining prices at an unjustifiably high level for private gain. Laws have also been enacted against this form of monopoly. They should be enforced.

Yet, paradoxically, the government which is about to investigate monopoly for the purpose of bringing it to an end, has not only encouraged it, but is itself by far the leading exponent of price fixing and maintenance. A mass of state and federal law has been enacted for this very purpose. The "tydings" rider to permit price maintenance in states that allow it and the Robinson-Patman act, outlawing price discriminations, are two examples. Furthermore, the administration of these laws encouraging monopoly, is in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission, the very government agency designated to bring private monopoly to an accounting.

The federal reserve system openly supports the bond market for the declared purpose of maintaining a high price level for government securities. Private "manipulators" are threatened with federal indictment for doing the same with their securities.

The surplus commodity agency largely exists for the purpose of fixing and maintaining prices on farm products. The unconstitutional NRA and AAA were price fixing and monopolistic from beginning to end. Both encouraged private monopoly.

Planned economy, government control of the economic structure, simply cannot exist without monopoly. Control is the one necessary essential. This is one of the reasons, it is logical to assume, why the administration has left nothing undone to force passage of the wage-hour bill. It is monopolistic. It is necessary if the economic life of the nation is to be planned and controlled.

So, the government, the leading price fixer, the nation's outstanding exponent of monopoly, forces private industry into a congressional investigation on the ground that it is suspected of the same practice. There is a great deal of doubt as to the wisdom as well as the necessity for this inquisition. If it is to degenerate into a circus attraction preliminary to the coming elections, with the usual parade of near greats, it would be better if it were never held.

UTILIZING WASTE PRODUCTS

Many movements have been started in the past for saving and utilizing waste materials on the farm and in the forest. It has been estimated that 400,000,000 tons of products of various kinds are wasted or destroyed annually in America. The value of these lost materials, of course, is inestimable.

The Agricultural-Engineering Foundation, a non-profit organization, is undertaking to arouse the people to the necessity of saving these wasted resources. It is proposed to form advisory boards in every county in the nation to promote the foundation's activities.

In addition to actually saving wasted materials, the plan calls for new and improved systems of irrigation, eliminating hazards that produce crop failures, reducing the cost of production by utilizing by-products and building and maintaining soil fertility.

It is pointed out that a utilization of raw materials now wasted and destroyed, and their conversion into useful products for which there is a constant demand, would add untold millions of dollars to the nation's wealth. Providing substitutes for irreplaceable resources, now being rapidly exhausted, is also part of the program.

The plan is receiving nation-wide support from chemists, engineers, government and state officials and industrial organizations. The Gearhart bill, now before congress, is to provide financing in the event private capital is not available. It goes without saying that any plan to consume materials now wasted, thereby improving the resources of the farmer, should be supported. As things now stand his financial returns are far too small.

WEALTH IN TUNG OIL?

There is an appropriation of $120,000, contained in the annual supply bill for the federal Department of Agriculture, for research and development in the growing of tung oil trees in Georgia and Florida. This bill is now in conference committee of the two houses. There is every reason to believe the tung oil item will be retained when the measure is finally adopted.

While tung trees will only grow profitably, in a limited area in south Georgia, in Florida and along the Gulf coast, there are tremendous potentialities in the development of this comparatively new crop.

Tung oil is an important industrial material, entering into the manufacture of many essential articles, including paint, linoleums, oilcloth, varnish, printing ink, synthetic lumber, etc. Approximately 150,000,000 pounds of tung oil is now imported annually, most of it coming from China. Recent developments in that country make it extremely uncertain as a source of supply for the future.

Tung oil may easily, if its production is properly encouraged and developed, become a leading cash crop in an area in this state which vitally needs new money producing crops to replace cotton and other products on acres taken out of those crops by governmental action. At the same time it is not desirable, from the viewpoint of national agricultural economics, to produce crops which would compete with other sections to too large extent.

Tung oil, however, competes with no other agricultural area in the country. Climatic and soil conditions suitable for the growth of tung trees are found only in this strictly limited area. There are already tung orchards producing profitably, though many attempts to raise the trees have failed due to lack of knowledge and information by the growers.

The federal department of agriculture, if given the appropriation desired, can launch on proper, scientific, intelligent footing a new agricultural activity in south Georgia which can add much to the total annual income of the state and its people.

GOOD EXAMPLE

The city of Marietta has adopted a program to increase the safety of its streets which could well be copied by every municipality in this state.

The Marietta city council has ordered that all trees and shrubs which impede the view of motorists or pedestrians at street intersections must be removed, either by the owners or by city labor. After due notice has been served on an owner, if the condemned growth is not removed within specified time, the city will step in and do the work.

This plan is already in force in many communities, but others make no effort to remove a condition which is a frequent cause of tragic traffic accidents. Adoption of the system by Marietta serves again to emphasize its importance and to draw the attention of authorities in communities which still permit the dangerous conditions to exist.

There is nothing more vital to safety on the streets than clear view for drivers and pedestrians at all intersections. A large proportion of accidents are directly attributable to blocked vision at corners.

Not only in residential sections where trees and shrubbery are the principal offenders against this safety factor, but in business sections where buildings frequently cut off the view too abruptly, future building plans should take this circumstance into consideration. Cities of the future will be forced to plan their building for automotive traffic entirely and all changes and developments should be made with this thought in view. When old city plans are finally shelved for the modern, there will be a sharp reduction in the traffic toll of life and limb which is now a disgrace to many urban communities all over the nation.

The true liberal is sorely tried. He can't imagine why anyone would want to go to Jersey City, but must die, if need be, to preserve that sacred privilege.

A New Yorker perfects a process by which surplus milk may be used to paint automobiles. For a milk shake, add the old-time model T and a little vanilla.

The birth of a boy with seven fingers on either hand is reported at Sassento, Italy. Over here, the hunt for a reliable shortstop continues unabated.

Only slightly revised, the Dana definition of news still holds. In Pennsylvania, a motorist who seemed a gentleman robbed a hitch-hiker.

Editorial of the Day

SPENDING AND THE MISSING MARGIN

(Peter Molyneux in the Texas Weekly.)

What is true of the cotton farmer's foreign markets is true also of the foreign markets of many other kinds of producers in the United States. And it is their reduced purchasing power that has created the missing margin of consumer demand that is at the root of this whole matter. The whole situation is due to the circumstance that the United States is now the leading creditor nation in the world, but it is still maintaining the commercial policy of a debtor nation—the policy of a high protective tariff. Now, you may not think that policy can be changed. You may think it is politically impossible to change it. Well, all that I can say to that is that it is not so nearly impossible as to restore stable prosperity in a creditor country like the United States under a high tariff policy.

I don't know how much punishment American industry can stand of the kind it has been getting since 1929, but I am sure there is a limit to it. And I hope that before that limit is reached this truth will have become clear to enough people in the United States to bring about a reversal of that policy and to restore the missing margin of purchasing power, the lack of which is now taking us toward Fascism along the road to government spending on a large scale.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

PENNSYLVANIA EXAMPLE WASHINGTON, May 11.—Just how is the taxpayers' money used to buy votes for administration candidates? It's time to answer that question, with primaries involving the prestige fast coming on, with an election which will make or break the President only a few months off; above all, with a new blank check spending bill before congress.

The answer, in all its rather ludicrous sordidness, is to be found in Pennsylvania. There the forces of the great allies, John L. Lewis and Senator Joseph P. Guffey, are conducting a fantastic primary contest against the rebellious Guffey creatures, State Chairman David Lawrence, the Philadelphia Bosses Kelly and McCloskey, and the paunchy and loquacious governor, George H. Earle III.

GUFFEY PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION From the start, the Works Progress Administration in Senator Guffey's state might well have been renamed the Guffey Progress Administration. When it was established in 1935, it was turned over to him, lock, stock and barrel. He was permitted to appoint Edward N. Jones, a faintly malodorous ex-Republican publicity man, as state administrator. And Mr. Jones was allowed to put in practice the old Guffey maxim, "A Democratic party worker always does the best job for the government."

Political clearance—the indorsement of the Guffey machine—was not demanded, with actual relief, of the Pennsylvania WPA employment. But every one of all the thousands of foremen, supervisors, time-checkers and the like were required to be faithful Guffey workers.

The method of hiring these well-paid WPA officials was simple indeed. When the egregious Mr. Jones required men, he notified the state committee in Harrisburg. The committee checked over its lists of deserving Democrats, supplied "clearance papers" to the best vote deliverers, and sent them along to Mr. Jones. After that, a life of federal bounty was their fortunate lot.

Just as the foremen and supervisors in the steel plants used to tell the workmen to vote for Senator Penrose's Republicans, these WPA foremen and supervisors told the relief workers to vote for the Guffey candidates. In spite of the pious protestations of Washington WPA officials, all this is universally admitted by the franker Guffey henchmen. As Mr. Bailey, the senator's secretary, once said:

"Those foremen are non-designated jobs. If good Democrats can have them, hell bells, why shouldn't they?"

COMES THE REVOLUTION

The Guffey political juggernaut in Pennsylvania is now split asunder, however, and the split has even affected the Guffey Progress Administration. Since clearance for all the WPA foremen and the like went through the loyalty of J. Banks Hudson, successor to the efficient Jones. And he has been using Mr. Hudson to move in on Lawrence-sympathizing county supervisors and similar officials. Not long ago, one Schuler, who ran the WPA in big Luzerne county, was removed from his post. There have been other signs that the Lawrenceites and Kellyites in the WPA would be frightened into line for Guffey.

Thus the recent letter of protest to WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, from Philadelphia's Boss Kelly, Mr. Kelly was not really deriding politics in the WPA. He was merely fearful that Guffey politics would be substituted for Lawrence-Kelly-McCloskey politics. And the chances are that they will be.

In the next few days, more shifts of important officials are said to be scheduled. More top men will have their heads cut off. And, above all, thousands of new foremen, supervisors, time-checkers and so on are being added to WPA's Pennsylvania rolls under the program of the primary election on May 17. The political army on the WPA roll will probably have been increased from an original 8,000 to 11,000 or even 12,000. The new men will all be hand-picked Guffeyites, and, unless the senator is a great deal less smart than he seems, the WPA vote will be a Guffey vote.

If this is the sort of thing that can be done when the White House is not especially interested, one wonders what will happen in Kentucky, for example, where the defeat of Senator Alben Barkley would be a blow to the New Deal.

Route Marking

On The Highways.

The American Automobile Association is undertaking, this year, to bring about an improvement in what it describes as the present "inadequate and obsolete" system of route numbering on the highways of the nation.

There are a number of reforms the association lists as needed and, taken by and large, there can be little question but what the criticisms are well taken.

Am not quite sure, but I believe route numbering and marking is the duty of the highway departments of the various states. Of course we are all familiar with the present dual system. One set of numbers identifies the routes by the state system and the other, the familiar black and white shield, is the federal route marking. I think, however, the federal insignia is partly upheld by the state highway departments as well as their own.

The signs which warn of danger spots, of curves ahead or of cross roads, etc., are entirely a state affair.

Principal Criticisms.

One of the most frequent criticisms, according to Russell E. Singer, general manager of the A. A. A., is that signs are placed too close to intersections, so that the motorist is rarely given sufficient advance notice of a change in direction. There should be a greater number of signs indicating the coming change well before he reaches the intersection, another sign at the intersection itself and a third after the intersection is passed to reassure him he is still on the right route.

The difficulty of following numbered routes in cities is another complaint. This is blamed on too great distance between the signs or because of poor placing, so they are not seen easily and clearly. This question of proper placing is particularly important at night, when there is a great number of signs, lights, and otherwise, to confuse the passing motorist.

Improvement in the sign system is needed, it is said, not only to speed traffic but also to reduce the accident risk. "Cars jammed up at intersections while drivers try to decipher crossword-puzzle road signs present a dangerous situation," says Mr. Singer.

Some Other Faults.

Among other faults pointed out by large numbers of touring motorists are:

1. Country districts, highway numbers are oftentimes too far apart and not properly placed. In some states, particularly in the west, one can drive for long distances without seeing a highway number.

2. Does Philadelphia have an elevated railway?

3. Name the two caves at the entrance to Chesapeake Bay.

4. In medical practice, what is caries?

5. Name the author of the "lame duck" amendment to the constitution.

6. What is the function of the lachrymal glands?

7. Name the first chief justice of the United States supreme court.

8. Does the Republic of China use the same calendar as the United States?

9. In which country is the city of Nice?

10. How is 1492 written in Roman numerals?

Losing Something Valuable.

NEW YORK.—Dr. Henry F. Ward, professor at Union Theological College at New York, said in his sermon last Sunday that man is losing moral indignation in our time. We are becoming inured to calamities, injustice and the titanic evil of war. We shrug our shoulders and go our way as if it is nothing extraordinary that a million human beings have been killed in Spain and that every day huge districts the size of whole states are laid waste in China, the inhabitants massacred and the villages given over to the prey of the flames. According to a report from Christian missionaries in Shantung province, the behavior of the Japanese troops in that part of the great eastern republic beggars description. But nobody gets excited about it, literally nobody.

The Pope of Rome on the suggestion of Great Britain made representations to General Franco on the bombing of civilians from the air and it was reported that the leader of the Insurgents gave the Holy Father a "filial and reassuring answer" on the subject, but two days afterwards the general had Barcelona bombed from the air and killed 1,200 children. Yet this general is said to be anxious to permeate the whole of Spain with "the spirit of Christ."

You can no longer believe your own eyes when you read such blasphemies. By allowing every devil in this world to be settled by violence and force, we are fast depriving our civilization of the last vestiges of Christianity. Of course, the churches still function and the services are still held and the hymns are still sung, but in my estimation a Christianity that allows such a lack of moral indignation, a Christianity that shows such willingness to compromise and condone, is a dying Christianity.

Some of us may even stand in admiration before Hitler and Mussolini and say after all these men get things done. They bring order out of democratic chaos and impose social peace. We do not realize sufficiently that with the recent occupation of Austria, the Fuehrer stuck a dagger into the heart of that essential Europe, that Europe which was the heir of humanism and Christianity.

Man Merely

Cog in Machine.

The meaning of the occupation of that country was that fifty million semi-barbarians in eastern Europe passed under the influence of the pan-Hitler idea of the sense of human destiny and that they will henceforth draw all the interior and exterior consequences from that new conception which is the very opposite of that of Christianity, for it looks upon man as a cog in a machine.

It has become a commonplace to say that Christianity is on the decline. The truth is far woe. Christianity is on the run. Europe is reverting to paganism. The Christian stamp, thin as it was, is being removed from international affairs. The plighted word no longer counts. Pity and compassion for human life is being supplanted by ruthless authoritarianism. The pagan spirit is invading every domain of life.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

WANAMAKER'S MOTHER.

John Wanamaker, the famed merchant prince, was very kind to me on an occasion when I was interviewing him for a human interest story. In his New York store office—one of the most beautiful for appointment I have ever seen—he showed me a portrait of his mother, Elizabeth Deshong Wanamaker, and said:

"How can a man boast that he is self-made when he owes everything to God and mother and wife?"

Every day was Mother's Day for Mr. Wanamaker. Following the death of his mother in Philadelphia, in 1881, he wrote:

"I have a gleam of heaven, and it never faded out of her face for her dying day."

On his desk, as all will remember who ever entered his office, was a small, but beautifully framed passage of Scripture—Exodus 20:12: "Honor thy mother."

Herbert Adams Gibbons, biographer of Mr. Wanamaker, says: "It was because of his mother's strong and constant influence upon him, which he felt with peculiar force during the trying days that followed the launching of the Great Depot, that Wanamaker quoted almost daily in his editorial boxes in the page advertisements in the newspapers some word from his mother. Some of the adjectives employed by the merchant prince in his widely known editorial boxes that so often appeared in his advertisements, were: 'Cherished, treasured, adored, idolized, tenderly loved, precious, perfect mother.'"

I recall so well how Mr. Wanamaker kept me away from questions that would require answers reflecting his own greatness, directing his remarks constantly toward God's goodness, his mother's unwearied ministry, and his wife's sustaining love and devotion. You may not be surprised, therefore, that thoughts of the recent Mother's Day led me back to that visit to Mr. Wanamaker and his tribute to his mother. With Edgar Guest let us say:

Let every day be Mother's Day, Make roses grow along her way And beauty everywhere. Oh, never let her eyes be wet With tears of sorrow or regret, And never cease to care.

Hitler's Jail Sentence.

In 1924 Adolph Hitler was sentenced to jail. He escaped a death sentence only because he was fortunate enough to have a national hero, General Erich Ludendorff, as his fellow participant in a revolt intended to overthrow the republican government in Bavaria, and was regarded as harmless himself.

Nothing Will Cure a Tough Gu

Except a Dose of His Own Medicine

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

In any discussion of present-day diplomacy or politics, you are likely to come across the two unpronounceable French words, "fa accompli," meaning the ship has sailed, the die is cast, the guinea has lit, the fat is in the fire, and things like that.

These two words are the basis and explanation of the new national policy of Germany, Italy and Japan.

These three nations (meaning their masters), having decided to divide the wealth of the world for their own benefit, turned their backs on the ancient methods of dicker and barter and began to take what they desired, thus in each case confronting the world with a "fait accompli," or fact accomplished.

It is the most effective method of getting ahead ever devised by man; not because possession is nine parts of the law, but rather because a hatched egg cannot be commanded to unhatch itself.

As the better part of strategy, according to the immortal Fortes, is to "git thar first with the most men," so the winning trick in diplomacy is to do your devilment first and then discuss it later.

If you suspect that some young whippersnapper has designs on your girl, you may threaten to shoot him if he ever comes around again, but when he appears hand-in-hand with the girl to break the news that you have a new son-in-law, there doesn't seem to be any point in shooting him. That won't undo the marriage.

So far, the Fascist nations have found that method very effective. Faced with the need of destroying white prestige in China and proving that America is afraid of her, Japan deliberately bombed and sunk American ships. Of course she apologized and paid, but the thing was done and nothing short of war could undo the evil effect.

But there is a way to fight that system. It is called fighting the devil with fire. When Jap fishing boats anchored outside the three-mile limit spread mile-long nets, and captured our salmon as they headed back into their native rivers to spawn, polite protests accomplished nothing at all.

But if one of our destroyers had policed that region and calmly sailed between the fishing boats and cut the net every time it was spread, politely apologizing after each "accident," the Japs would have been licked at their own game.

It is the only way to handle these people, and we'll keep on losing till we develop enough backbone to adopt it.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"The cattle are grazing,
Their heads never raising,
They are forty feeding like one."

Wilmington's Hugh MacRae, high priest of green fields and year-round grazing, doesn't mean permanent pastures when he campaigns for a south whose fields are green in winter. If he did he would probably have Bermuda grass as the basis of his growing program. What he means and has developed is a series of different annual crops to be planted at different times of the year in a manner to have something all the time. Since a recent description here of his farm and what he is accomplishing has brought several requests for details, we have asked him to give them.

"We do not believe that permanent pastures will make it possible to have profitable animal husbandry in the southeastern states," he writes. "During periods of drought they leave the animals without anything to eat. We are certain to have droughts both in the spring and fall, and we often have them in summer. We have found that our permanent pastures last only a few months and can only be used for grazing about three months. For this reason we have worked out a system of grazing on annual crops."

"In the summer we graze from June 1 to the middle of October on Biloxi soy beans or desmodium (beggard weed) and on Sudan grass or pearl millet. All of these are planted in rows and cultivated. There are two planting seasons, one in March and April and the other in June and July. Between the rows of the above-mentioned crops we plant in August, with a three-row planter, Coker's cold-proof oats and bur clover, crimson clover and any other self-seeding legumes desired like yellow annual melilotus or black medick. The oats are ready for grazing in October and the legumes, depending on the varieties, can be grazed in November and through the winter and spring until the middle of May. We have discovered a strain of white clover which we think is ready for grazing until the first of June when we start again on soy beans, etc."

"We have two other serious objections to so-called permanent pastures. They usually become infested with onions (wild) and other detrimental weeds and they spread diseases because of the close grazing. In contrast the annual crops (or most of them) are high from the ground and by moving from one field to another there is practically no danger of the spread of contagious diseases."

To readers of this column who are not truly-rural enough to care a hang about soy beans, black medick and the like, we offer no apology for concentrating on them today. They are important, and they concern city folks as much as they do agriculturalists. One of the most promising and logical developments available to the farmers of the south is the development of a system of grazing on annual crops.

"He gives little who gives with a covetous eye," says the Talmud. "He that gives to a grateful man puts his money at compound interest."

"He who gives alms to the poor with an unfriendly mien, a downcast face, even if he gives thousands of pieces of gold, has merit owing to his manner of giving, but one should give joyfully with a cheerful mien."

"He who urges others to practice charity and causes them to practice it, earns a greater reward than he who gives."

"The house which opens to the poor will open to the physician."

"If a poor man refuses your gift, give it to him again and let it go."

"If thy enemy be hungry, give him bread; if thirsty, give him water to drink."

Two Atlanta policemen were granted pensions yesterday while applications of two others were held up pending investigation. The board of trustees of the pension fund granted pensions $60 a month to John B. Wood, D. E. Moon. Both have served years in the department. The pensions will become effective June 1.

Applications of P. B. Dailey and E. Allen were held up until further investigation, Comptroller Graham West, secretary of the board, said.

Meanwhile, Captain C. P. White, senior member of the Atlanta fire department, announced he would retire after 32 years of fire fighting. His application will be acted upon at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Firemen's Fund this afternoon.

Captain White, who has been located at Station House No. 15, plans to go to New York to live with a married daughter.

700 Presented on Anniversary Of English Rulers' Accession

Kennedy, Make Bow.

LONDON, May 11.—(AP)—King George VI and his smiling Queen Elizabeth reopened the richest show on earth tonight in the red, white and gold ballroom of Buckingham Palace, on the eve of the first anniversary of their coronation.

It was their first court of the season, with approximately 700 presentations—socially historic for Americans because of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's policy of presenting so few of them.

Mrs. Kennedy introduced only seven transplanted Americans, including her daughters, Rosemary and Kathleen.

'Orphan' Deposit Bobs Up in Suit Over $500,000

A forgotten deposit of $10,000, for 15 years husbanded in the First National Bank of Atlanta, was turned over to two receivers yesterday in Fulton superior court pending final disposition of the money, sought by heirs to the $500,000 estate of the late Mrs. Rebecca J. R. Treadwell.

The action was taken by Mrs. Kate Kirkwood, who filed the receivership action, contending she received only $1,500 of a $2,000 bequest made her in the late Mrs. Treadwell's will.

She asks that the remaining $500 be taken from the forgotten account, which she seeks to have distributed among other heirs. The account was discovered by one of the heirs recently, according to her attorneys, the law firm of Douglas, Andrews & Cole.

Attorneys Edgar Craighead and J. Q. Bush were appointed receivers and qualified immediately by posting jointly a bond of $10,000.

BUTLER SUCCESSOR TO BE NAMED TODAY

Fire Board Expected To Elect Fanning, Now Second Assistant.

Political wires in the fire department began to buzz yesterday as the board of firemasters announced a special meeting would be held at 8 o'clock tonight to fill the vacancy created by the death of Assistant Chief William Butler.

General belief is that Second Assistant Chief W. B. Fanning would be elevated to the post of first assistant.

Chief O. J. Parker said last night he planned to recommend Fanning for the vacancy, although he refused to reveal whom he would recommend for Fanning's position.

In addition to the two assistants, a captain and a lieutenant also will be named by the board of firemasters. A number were said to be "running" for these posts.

Flying Fortresses Ordered to Sea To Locate 'Enemy' War Game Fleet

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Four of the army's flying fortress bombers settled on nearby Mitchell field today to be groomed for a flight to sea early tomorrow, the first move against the "enemy" in the mass maneuvers of the general headquarters air force. They will attempt to locate an "enemy" fleet.

For five days, beginning at midnight, the G. H. Q. the army's fleet of swift-striking combat planes, will be on a wartime basis. In theory, a coalition of European and Asiatic powers is attacking not only the American mainland but Hawaii as well.

Initial advice, dispensed by the umpires of the war games yesterday, said a formidable fleet of warships was steaming westward across the Atlantic to assail the Atlantic seaboard.

Today officers of the three "wings" of the G. H. Q. were told a second group of warships had left Europe to bolster the first "enemy" fleet.

For maneuver purposes, the navy was assumed to be standing off Hawaii to cope with the warships of the "Asiatic power." Only enough naval vessels were left on the east coast for patrol purposes.

Defending airplanes, numbering almost 200, were scattered over 18 airdromes in New England, New York state, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Edward G. Mackay will officiate, and burial will be in West View cemetery.

Funeral services for James H. Nunnally, 78, retired Atlanta manufacturer and business leader, who died Monday at his home in Miami, will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning in Spring Hill. Dr.

W. GROVER STARNES IS BURIED AT AUSTELL

Funeral services for W. Grover Starnes, 53, retired branch manager of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, who died Tuesday at his home, 2577 North Decatur road, N. E., were held yesterday afternoon in Peachtree chapel, with the Rev. Felton Williams officiating. Burial was in Austell.

A native of Austell, Starnes came here in 1909 as an automobile salesman. In 1917, he went with Goodyear, and was made branch manager with jurisdiction over a large southeastern area in 1921. He retired in 1935, due to ill health.

ILA DECLARES WAR ON CIO MEMBERSHIP

Longshoremen To Expel Any Who Retain Identification With 'Foe.'

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 11.—(AP) International Longshoremen's Association delegates adopted a resolution here today advocating removal of any members who retained identification with the Committee for Industrial Organization or the Communist party.

George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, told the South Atlantic-Gulf district convention a number of ILA members had been "misled."

"We are forgiving them for their past actions," he said, "but from this moment on there will be no clemency."

Policy Board Proposed. Googe proposed establishment of an emergency policy board by the AFOL-affiliated association, with power of suspension and expulsion. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

The board would be composed of nine members, with appointment of three each in the hands of the president of the ILA, the district president and the president of the AFOL.

Penalties Suggested. The resolution suggested penalties also for anyone "conniving with the National Labor Relations Board in transferring our jurisdiction to the CIO."

Plans to extend the ILA to

U. S. HAS NEW PLAN FOR OIL SUPPLIES

Mexican Wells Would Pay Out Under Lease.

MEXICO CITY, May 11.—(AP)—Reliable quarters tonight reported Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera was returning from Washington to Mexico with a "conciliatory formula" advanced by the United States for settlement of the $400,000,000 oil industry controversy.

Unconfirmed reports said the formula involved leasing of the expropriated oil properties to the foreign-controlled companies for a period of 15 or 20 years with government participation.

Profits would go toward paying indemnities to the companies from which they were taken by the Mexican government March 18. The properties ultimately would revert to the nation.

Sportsmen's League came as a result of allegations that a recent airplane survey conducted by Savannah organization revealed 16 shrimp boats trawling in prohibited sounds and areas on coast and the subsequent dismissal of Richardson.

Lang declared he did not confer with Commissioner Mitchell. Savannah last night, but held brief long distance telephone conversation with him this morning. He said a future conference with Mitchell was tentatively arranged.

FEDERATION HITS WPA UNION PLAN

Practice of 'Exacting Tribute' Is Condemned.

Condemnation of efforts "to exact tribute from unfortunates of relief and WPA workers under pretense" of organizing them into unions was voiced last night by the executive committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

The resolution, signed by Dewey L. Johnson, president, and Paul Chipman, recording secretary, pointed out "efforts have been made to convince the public generally that the labor movement approves this practice."

"The policy of this federation toward WPA workers and unfortunates on relief shall continue to be helpful whenever organized labor can be of service," the resolutions said.

"We condemn the practice of exacting tribute from these workers in the name of unionism, until such time as they have been re-employed in productive industry, when this federation will seek to organize them in bona fide trade unions of their respective crafts."

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY

To fight a single lion held no terrors for Tarzan. But to meet two at once was another matter. Yet meet them he must—and kill them—if he was to live, be free again... HORSESHOES CAN'T—BUT SCIENCE CAN

When we tell you that every bottle, every can, every drop of SCHLITZ is exactly the same, we mean just that. And here's why SCHLITZ can make this statement. At the mammoth SCHLITZ brewery, the enzyme action that changes choice grain and hops to fine SCHLITZ beer is never left to luck. SCHLITZ has spent millions of dollars and years of research in developing Precise Enzyme Control.

Under this method, SCHLITZ is brewed to the exact point where it is at its very best... the point where it is neither underripe nor overripe. It is just right. And that's the way it comes to you.

Every bottle and can contains Sunlight Vitamin D—exclusive with SCHLITZ.

AROUND THE WORLD WENT THE STORY IN 1849

In 1849, the chief topic of conversation was Sutter's gold discovery in California. But even this did not dim the news of another discovery that very same year... the discovery of a new and better beer being brewed in Milwaukee.

Through the years that followed, one man told another until the whole world heard. And the beer brewed by Schlitz became The Beer that Mad Milwaukee Famous.

From the very beginning, the character and flavor of SCHLITZ have set it apart from all other beers. These unmatched qualities are yours to the fullest in delightfully dry, delightfully drinkable SCHLITZ today.

M'DUFFIE WILL RAISE WATSON HOME FUND

THOMSON, Ga., May 11.—McDuffie county has moved to raise $1,000 for the Thomas E. Watson Rural Free Delivery Foundation, initiated a year ago by carriers of the tenth congressional district and later sponsored by the state organization.

The Thomson Board of Trade has subscribed $500 and will direct the raising of that much more to initiate a national campaign to raise $30,000 for the purchase of Hickory Hill, the home of Watson, the "father of rural free delivery," and to make it a national shrine.

Georgia rural letter carriers expect to bring the initial subscription to $3,000, which will be used in financing the campaign for the $30,000 permanent fund expected to be contributed by letter carriers of the 48 states.

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get it over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PREFERS POVERTY TO PAYING ALIMONY

Formerly $368-a-Month Engineer Farms Small City Plot.

Rather than pay alimony, a veteran railroad engineer gave himself a swift kick in the financial pants that booted him from a $368-a-month job to the edge of extreme poverty.

Now he lives alone in a windowless, one-room shack at the foot of Pine street, Inman Yards, and farms the one and a half acres of ground that surrounds the little house, located within a few yards of the railroad tracks.

Dressed in work clothes, the former engineer, F. E. Campbell, 68, told the story last night. It all started 15 years ago.

Married Seven Years.
He said he had been married seven years when his marital train sidetracked into the divorce court. At that time, he was living on Formwalt street, and was earning nearly $400 a month as an engineer. He had seen 23 years' service.

"I think it was August, 1923," he said, rubbing his chin with a hand. "The court told me to pay $100 a month alimony and $20 a month on my wife's $350 lawyer's bill. I didn't want to pay alimony, and I didn't."

Campbell said he "went to another state for seven years," and then returned to Atlanta. Shack Cost $1.80.
"I figured if I didn't have nothing, they couldn't get nothing," he went on. "So six years ago, I built this shack. Cost me $1.80 for the wood. I started farming, and I raise just about everything—corn, beans, potatoes, onions."

"What I don't eat, I sell. I keep a few hogs, too. Last year, I got 1,800 pounds of meat. Sold some, sure."

Asked if his wife were still living, Campbell said: "Yep, she comes see me once in a while. We ain't mad at each other no more. I guess we was just too hot-tempered for each other."

For solace, he has a pet kitten, his pipe and the trains going by. A new British process to keep wool from shrinking is gaining wide interest among textile manufacturers in England.

Controversy Expected To Result in Victory for Commission.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—The tire south is interested in the controversy in Washington over the site and design of the Thomas Jefferson memorial provided for an act of congress.
A commission—the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Commission—headed by Representative John J. Cullen, of New York, has recommended that the memorial be placed on the shore of the tidal basin, south of the White House, and at the form be of the Roman thesion type, greatly admired by Jefferson and used by him in the instruction of the University of Virginia and his home, Monticello. As was the case with other public buildings and memorials, congress is divided, it looks as if the commendations of the commission would be accepted, but it may some time before a final decision is reached.

No Kidding!—These Are Senior Students at Russell High School Having Last Fling

Seniors at Russell High school in East Point did not act their age yesterday. They forgot a few years, but went up in the world during the afternoon, anyhow. The girls went to school in gingham dresses, dolls in their arms and with all-day suckers in their mouths, while the outnumbered males donned overalls and patched pants and played marbles in the halls. They even listened to teachers reading fairy tales. After school, the pupils came to downtown Atlanta, unabashed by stares of shoppers and businessmen. Getting up in the world, they climbed to the roof of The Constitution, where this group photograph was taken. Later, they went to picture shows, where some were admitted for half price. All were observing yearly privilege of senior students at the school's "kid" day.

TVA PROBERS SPLIT
Members Differ Over Method of Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(P)—The TVA investigating committee split today over a proposal to start the inquiry at once by hearing publicly the charges and counter-charges of the agency's embattled directors.
Opponents of the proposal succeeded in deferring committee action on it until next Wednesday. Representative Mead, Democrat, New York, vice chairman of the joint congressional investigating group, broached the plan. Senator Donahay, Democrat, Ohio, committee chairman, opposed it, urging a more leisurely approach to the inquiry.

PRINCETON YOUTHS
DEFY 'HAGUETOWN'

Distribute Handbills Advertising Rally at Which Thomas Will Speak.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 11.—(P)—Princeton University students "invaded" Journal Square tonight to distribute anti-Hague leaflets as an opponent of Mayor Frank Hague announced a court test would be started to review the constitutionality of this city's ban on street meetings without a permit.

Twelve youths, who did not give their names, handed out circulars advertising tomorrow night's Princeton rally against Hague, at which Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, will speak. They carried placards proclaiming "Is he the law? Fight Hague!"
A few hours earlier a state leader of the Catholic War Veterans reiterated a prediction of violence by veterans against anti-Hague speakers and said he "feared" thousands of veterans would "take the law into their own hands and drive out this group of Red communist leaders and prevent their invasion of the city."

CLERGYMEN URGED TO CHECKMATE HAGUE
NEW YORK, May 11.—(P)—The Churchmen, national liberal journal of the Protestant Episcopal church, today urged clergymen not to "sit supinely by and let the Fascist Mayor of Jersey City (Frank Hague) pursue his Nazi tactics without calling a halt."
"There can no longer be any doubt in the mind of an informed person," it added, "that Fascism is on the move in the United States."

DeKalb Primary
'Write In' Vote
Upsets Matters

As candidates for all paying jobs in the DeKalb county primary yesterday were swept into office for new terms without opposition, voters of the Edgewood district refused to elect E. G. Jackson as executive committeeman and 104 out of 121 wrote in the name of John Allen Dunaway.
Dunaway, a lawyer, was in Tennessee trying a case when the time for qualifying expired and did not pay the $1 fee set by the county Democratic committee. Jackson claims to have been the only qualified candidate.

Dunaway's friends contend members of the Democratic executive committee are elected and are not nominated, and, therefore, voters had the right to vote for anyone they wished without respect to previous qualifications. The middle will be considered when the executive committee meets today. Dunaway has been committeeman for four years.

Candidates nominated for the general election include Charles A. Matthews, commissioner of roads and revenues; Frank Guess, judge of Decatur city court; D. P. Phillips, solicitor of the city court, and 18 executive committeemen.
The box in Decatur courthouse, where 2,000 persons vote in a normal election, received only 126 ballots during the 12-hour voting period beginning at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The same trend was noted in the other 24 boxes of the county.

Vargas' Daughter Describes Revolt
As Seen Behind a Revolver Sight

Dark-Eyed Donna Alzira Stands Off Fascists With Father—Who Wants To Subdue Rebels Single-Handed—And Five Others Within Palace.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 11.—(P)—The 23-year-old daughter of the President of Brazil, Alzira Vargas, tonight described vividly how she and her father with five others faced an abortive uprising of Fascist rebels "ready to die with our boots on, as you Americans say."
Dark-eyed Donna Alzira, revolver in hand like her President-father, was beleaguered in Brazil's presidential palace while machine gun bullets and grenades burst in the palm-shadowed garden.

With them were two of President Vargas' three sons, one of his brothers and two members of his personal bodyguard.
"We were all in bed when the first signal of trouble came and I was fast asleep."
"The alarm was sounded by a member of the marine guard in the palace garden," she said.

"When I ran from my room to the front corridor as far as the palace front door I saw several dark figures. All lights were out. "By their voices I distinguished father, Uncle Benjamin and my two brothers, Luthero and Manoel Antonio. All had revolvers."
"We joined the two members of the bodyguard, one of whom and palace damage to property was slight. Bombs were thrown throughout the city by Rebels in an attempt to create confusion, but they caused little damage.

The attack on the palace came at the exact moment when the guard was being changed. The guard unit scheduled to go on duty had been augmented by sailors and civilians dressed in naval uniforms. They quickly attacked and disarmed part of the retiring guard.

BRAZIL IS NOT FASCIST

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—The Brazilian government's decisive action in putting down today's abortive rebellion was hailed by Brazilian Ambassador Mario Pimentel Brandao as proof to the Democratic powers that his country will not tolerate Fascism.
Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, attributed the revolt to resentment of German organizations over President Vargas' recent order restricting their activities.

"I feel that the Brazilian government is entirely uninfluenced by any other government," he said.

Here is
WE PAID $25.00 PER BOTTLE!

— for the finest whiskies of the old days . . . to prove that Crowns taste finer than even the rarest of the old blends

Seagram advertised for rare old whiskies . . . paid $25 for each sealed bottle of a bona fide blend bottled before June, 1919.
Armed with these famous premium whiskies of the old days, Seagram then called in its qualified experts—men whose judgment could be respected—and asked them to compare these old whiskies . . . side by side with Seagram's Crowns.
The whiskies were served in plain glasses. No one knew which was which. Unanimously these men chose Crowns, as "finer tasting, smoother, mellower."
Men everywhere are choosing Crowns—for their finer taste. From July, 1935, to December, 1937—in the 14 states that publish records—more people bought Seagram's 5 and 7 Crown than all other blended whiskies in their price class combined.
Blending skill explains it. Seagram has searched the world to single out the few master blenders capable of producing that exquisite Crown taste.
Wherever you buy—think before you drink . . . say Seagram's—and be sure.

RED 'LOST DIVISION' IS THORN TO FRANCO

Rightists Deny, However, That Unit Halts Their Drive Toward Border.

HENDAYE, France.—(At the Spanish Frontier.)—May 11.—(AP) The Spanish government's "lost division" sailed forth from its hidden Pyrenees mountain stronghold today in new raids on the insurgents' northern lines.

Military dispatches said the division, which has become a symbol of heroism to the Barcelona government and a thorn to the insurgents, was hampering Generalissimo Francisco Franco's preparations for a drive near the French frontier.

Insurgent and government reports conflicted. Insurgents said the division's attacks were repulsed with heavy losses and it remained isolated and surrounded. Government advisers declared Franco's artillery was ineffective against the "lost division's" retreat in Spain's mountainous far north. The division, the 43d, twice

Schedule Is Given For Eclipse of Moon

Scheduled for the disappearing act of the moon, which goes into total eclipse Saturday morning, was furnished yesterday by Fulton Superior Judge John D. Humphries, whose hobby is astronomy.

The lunar act will begin actually at 12:44 o'clock Saturday morning, Judge Humphries said. The "Monthly Evening Sky Map" showed.

The moon will enter the penumbra—partial eclipse—at 12:44 o'clock, and will be in total eclipse from 3:18 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock. The coming out process will be ended at 6:43 o'clock, the judge said.

Heavy artillery duels on the Mediterranean coast marked the return of clear weather after rains that immobilized heavy equipment on the main fronts.

Before the vote in the latter chamber, Minority Leader Snell, of New York, attacked a provision giving President Roosevelt discretionary power to build 45,000-ton battleships instead of the 35,000-ton type to which the navy has been limited in the past. The President could build the bigger vessels if he deemed them necessary.

Snell said the house should "assume some of its own responsibilities" instead of leaving all sorts of decisions to the President. Representative Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, replied that the government would save $81,000,000 if the President decided the bigger ships were not needed.

F.D.R. MAY ASK FUND TO RUSH NEW SHIPS

President Expected to Seek Immediate Start on 72 Ships Authorized.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt intends to ask congress before adjournment for funds to start work quickly on some of the 72 ships authorized by the billion-dollar fleet expansion bill, authoritative persons said today.

As soon as he signs the measure, which already has been approved by senate and house, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to ask appropriations for two cruisers, several auxiliaries and some of the small warships for which the measure authorizes a $15,000,000 outlay.

The expansion bill authorizes a 20 per cent increase in the navy's tonnage, but does not provide actual appropriations. The senate must approve a conference committee's compromise draft before the measure goes to the White House. The house approved it today, 67 to 31.

Before the vote in the latter chamber, Minority Leader Snell, of New York, attacked a provision giving President Roosevelt discretionary power to build 45,000-ton battleships instead of the 35,000-ton type to which the navy has been limited in the past. WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ear to Co

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.

More bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills at 9 o'clock to get bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing medicine. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Macon Reduces Municipal Debt By $300,000

MACON, Ga., May 11.—(AP)—This middle Georgia city, which in the 1930 census had a population of more than 53,000, has paid off almost $300,000 in municipal obligations since the first of this year and still allowed a three per cent discount to taxpayers.

Up until May 10, taxpayers were permitted to deduct the three per cent from 1933 taxes—and H. W. Pittman, chairman of the city council finance committee, reported collections "good."

Mayor Charles L. Bowden said he believed the fine financial showing of the Macon city government was the result of increased efficiency and decreased expenses.

Chief economies were made in the system of purchasing city supplies, he said, with one man handling the buying for the entire city government instead of each department head parceling out his needs.

"We made only minor reduction in personnel, and effected no salary cuts," Bowden said. "We retired some members of the fire and police departments, thus effecting a saving in these two units."

One of the progressive steps that Bowden thinks made for a sharp rise in efficiency was the passage of a city ordinance permitting the assignment of city employees to any position where their services might be needed.

Thus was eliminated the need for temporary workers, busy departments drawing on other departments for additional help as the need arises.

Bowden said the city tax rate was 15 mills and the total city income was estimated for this year at $850,000, including licenses, recorders' court fees and miscellaneous incomes.

Barbara Selman Awarded Prize For Best Collection of Books

By Sally Forth.

BARBARA SELMAN'S hobby has always been books. In fact, she has collected them since her story-book days, and, as a result, she is now the proud possessor of a splendid library. And because of this interest, she was awarded a $50 prize last week by the Student Book Shop at Randolph-Macon College, where she is a student.

Each year, it seems, the book shop offers this prize to the senior who has chosen the best collection of books for her personal library during her four years at college. The faculty members act as judges of the prize, and, of course, $50 worth of books. Each contestant is required to compile a classified list of the books she has acquired, in addition to a list of 80 that she would like to have for her library. Barbara chose the Italian Renaissance as the subject for her collection, due to her interest in this absorbing period of transition. Her books, which number 40, are now on display in the college library, where other students may take advantage of her literary taste and judgment.

Just now Barbara is deeply engrossed in supervising the production of a Greek play which will be presented in the natural amphitheater at Randolph-Macon this week. This marks her third year as a Greek student, and for the past two years she has appeared in the class play. However, she begged off from the thing role this time, with the promise that she would supervise the construction of the stage and the setting for the play.

Among the beautiful pieces of silver Mary Hunt has received wedding presents are two handsome antique vegetable dishes, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter. There is an interesting story behind the gifts which dates from the time Mrs. Porter, as Frances Fields, received the dishes when she became the bride of Mr. Porter on August 4, 1908, at the Inman Park Presbyterian church.

The Fields-Porter marriage was a brilliant event, and the young couple received many beautiful presents, which later adorned their home in Inman Park. Near their home resided Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hunt, and several years later when little Mary Hunt was born, Mrs. Porter was the first friend to see and hold the baby. Through life Mary has been the object of Mrs. Porter's love and affection, and it is appropriate that among Mary's most

Giltfillan-Price Wedding Plans Announced Today

Cordial interest is centered in the wedding plans of Miss Margaret Hopkins Giltfillan and Julian Price, the ceremony to be an event of May 21.

The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. Philip with Dean Raimundo de Ovies performing the ceremony. Tom Brumby III, of Marietta, will render a program of wedding music.

Miss Giltfillan has chosen as her maid of honor and only attendant, Miss Marian Aenebach. Miss Giltfillan will be given in marriage by her uncle, Charles Allen Hopkins, of Montgomery.

Mr. Price will have his brother, Goode Price Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., as his best man. Ushers will include George Corrigan, James Cogburn, Roy Fricks, Calvin Weaver and Robert Schwab Jr.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. C. Allen Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Easterling, Mrs. James Holt, of Montgomery, Ala.; Mrs. John M. Hopkins, of Galveston, Texas; Goode Price Jr., of Birmingham, Ala.; and Mrs. William Randall Bunkley, of Leesburg, Ga.

Fred Woodward entertains at a supper this evening the guests to include the wedding party and a few close friends of the young couple.

Miss Marian Aenebach will entertain at a luncheon on Saturday at Davidson's tea room in the bride-elect's honor and other parties being planned for this popular young couple will be announced later.

The dishes have the inscription of the original owners, "F. G. F., August 4, 1908" (for the former Frances G. Fields), and they bear Mary's initials, "M. H. W., May 13, 1938."

Mary and her fiancé are members of the choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church and it was their associates in the group who sent them a set of exquisite silver orange spoons which will form a very important and valuable part of their future household effects.

ALTHOUGH John Calhoun Wilson was born in Kobe, Japan, he will have the honor of cutting the birthday cake at the annual party to be given Saturday for children born at Emory University hospital. With his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, and his 18-month-old sister, Lucy Eugenia, John arrived in Atlanta several months ago for residence in the Orient, where the Wilsons have lived since their marriage six years ago.

John's mother is the former Eugenia Candler, member of the well-known Atlanta family whose members have contributed generously toward the financial support of Emory hospital and the adjoining university.

John, who is five years old, speaks Japanese with an accent equal to that of the natives of that country. His little Atlanta cousins and friends look upon him with much curiosity when he begins chatting in Japanese with his little sister, Lucy Eugenia, whose baby words show the training of her former Japanese nurse.

Saturday's party is sponsored by the Lucy Elizabeth Pavilion of Emory University hospital and will be held at the institution from 3 to 5 o'clock.

ATLANTA'S motoring along Dunwoody road have a rare treat in store when they pass Dr. L. C. Fischer's home. The red ramblers have burst into all their glory growing on the fence that incloses the property.

Flowerland is the name of the estate, and the place well deserves the cognomen, because flowers are blooming everywhere that the eye reaches. Dr. Fischer welcomes flower-lovers and it brings joy to the heart to walk through the grounds and drink in the beauty of flowers growing in every nook and cranny.

Miss Embry Feted.

Miss Annette Embry, whose betrothal to Thomas Kemp Marlowe was announced last Sunday, was honor guest at a party given Tuesday evening by Miss Teresa Atkinson at her home on Peachtree street. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Charles D. Atkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin Dexter entertained at an engagement tea Sunday for Miss Embry and Mr. Marlowe at the home of Mrs. J. R. Curtis, mother of Mrs. Dexter, on East Clifton road.

Those assisting were Miss Mary Embry, sister of the bride-elect, who poured tea; Mrs. J. F. Marlowe, who served punch, and Miss Myrtle Adams, who kept the bride's book. Miss Joe Kleckler played piano selections. Others assisting were Mrs. W. J. Shiver, Miss Alice Warren, Mrs. Frank Landers and Mrs. J. R. Curtis.

The lovely bride wore white satin fashioned along princess lines with a row of satin-covered buttons extending to the waist in back. The dress had long sleeves fitted to the wrist and a satin train was let into the skirt. The bride's veil was of three layers of tulle with a cap of real lace caught to her hair by orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a locket which was worn by the groom's grandmother, the late Mrs. Thomas Augustus Gramlin, and other brides in the Perkins family.

Mrs. Samuel Hewlett, mother of the bride, wore rose beige lace made along simple lines and her shoulder spray was of purple orchids.

Mrs. Howard Perkins, mother of the groom, was gowned in a model of white chantilly lace finished at the shoulders with rhinestone clips and her flowers were gardenias.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hewlett entertained at an informal reception for the wedding party at their home on Peachtree road.

The dining room table was covered with Italian lace cloth and on either end of the table were silver compotes holding Easter lilies. In the center of the table was the exquisite three-tiered wedding cake embossed

Miss Hewlett Weds Mr. Perkinson At Brilliant Church Ceremony

The vested choir sang several appropriate selections and Hugh Hodgson, the organist, played a musical program.

The choir stalls were enclosed in palms and ferns against which were silhouetted floor baskets of Easter lilies, and festoons of asparagus fern entwined the choir rail. The altar was banked in palms and ferns and centered with a floor basket filled with Easter lilies flanked on either side by seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers. The altar vases held clusters of Easter lilies, and beautified the altar.

The radiantly beautiful bride entered with her father, Samuel D. Hewlett, by whom she was given in marriage and they were met at the altar by the groom and his father, Dr. Howard Perkinson, of Marietta, who was his best man.

Beautiful Bride. The lovely bride wore white satin fashioned along princess lines with a row of satin-covered buttons extending to the waist in back. The dress had long sleeves fitted to the wrist and a satin train was let into the skirt. The bride's veil was of three layers of tulle with a cap of real lace caught to her hair by orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a locket which was worn by the groom's grandmother, the late Mrs. Thomas Augustus Gramlin, and other brides in the Perkins family.

Mrs. Samuel Hewlett, mother of the bride, wore rose beige lace made along simple lines and her shoulder spray was of purple orchids.

Mrs. Howard Perkins, mother of the groom, was gowned in a model of white chantilly lace finished at the shoulders with rhinestone clips and her flowers were gardenias.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hewlett entertained at an informal reception for the wedding party at their home on Peachtree road.

The dining room table was covered with Italian lace cloth and on either end of the table were silver compotes holding Easter lilies. In the center of the table was the exquisite three-tiered wedding cake embossed with valley lilies and topped with a miniature house embossed with white roses. The cake was placed on a mound of white sweetpeas, roses, snapdragons, swainsons, and valley lilies. Vari-colored flowers decorated other rooms in the home.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY, Tuesday.—Our sky was still gray this morning and before we reached the station a few drops of rain were falling, but I doubt if our parched countryside will have a real rain as yet. In one way, I am rather glad, for there is certain work being done around the house which I would like to have finished in the next day or so. Then, with the farmers, I shall pray for a good solid three days of rain, which I hope will fall gently so as to soak into the ground.

We nearly missed our train this morning, but the engineer recognized us and waited a second to let us on. Even the conductor was kind and tempered his first wrathful suggestion that a train should start the moment it is scheduled to do so.

Not long ago I commented on the fact that today some types of work require a dreary repetition that is hard on the average human being. That comment brought me a story which I am passing along. It appeals to me because, so often in my childhood, I lived in a dream world of make-believe to get away from the disagreeable things of life.

I am told that years ago, Miss Jane Addams, in investigating working conditions, found "one young girl whose sole duty was to insert tiny pegs into a machine hour after hour. The girl performed the act so cheerfully and with such evident zest that Miss Addams was moved to inquire how she could retain such an attitude in so dreary and unvaried a duty. The reply was smiling: 'Oh, in the morning I marry a duke and then I am happy all day long.'" We do not marry dukes, but constructive imagination can take us far away from many wearisome and necessary tasks.

I received a tempting invitation today to join the ninth Writers' Conference at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Col., from July 25 to August 12. I could give even more to stay at home! This is a particularly interesting announcement to me, for I knew nothing about it before, and it seems a marvelous opportunity for young and unknown writers. From among the best-known writers in our country, poets, novelists, short story writers and editors come to guide these young, aspiring authors. This year they have listed Carl Sandburg, Hervey Allen, Edward Davis, Elmer Rice and many others. Even if one were not going out for actual instruction, the opportunity to meet and talk with these men is an inspiration which anyone in the country might envy.

This morning Mrs. Scheider and I went to view posters in a safety contest in which Mr. De Lancey Kountze had asked me to act as one of the judges. I enjoyed this opportunity, although I could only view them from a layman's point of view, which was, perhaps, helpful. The other judges, Mr. W. H. Cameron, of the National Safety Council; Mr. C. B. Falls, famous poster artist and designer; Mr. Jonas Lie, president of the National Academy of Design; and Mr. Everett V. Meeks, dean of the School of Fine Arts at Yale, were capable of judging them from every point of view.

This afternoon I went to the Todhunter School exhibition, where pupils and graduates showed some of their achievements in art and handicraft work. Tomorrow will find me back in Washington.

BRIDGE LITE :: By Harold Sharpsteen

"QUICK TRICKS."

For reasons of added protection to declarer, efforts are being made from some quarters to introduce "quick tricks" into the requirements for opening bids in five-suit bridge. Should such a proposal meet with public favor, players who are turning to five-suit bridge in search of added thrills will have to be able to differentiate between "quick tricks" and "honor tricks."

Harold S. Vanderbilt's popular Club Convention was probably the first well-known bidding system in contract bridge to require possession of "quick tricks" for opening suit and no-trump bids.

Quick Trick Table.
Like all generals are soldiers, all quick tricks are honor tricks, but all honor tricks are not quick tricks. Quick tricks are definitely restricted to:
A K—2 Q. T.
A—1 Q. T.
K—1 Q. T.
K X—1 Q. T.

There are no more quick tricks. In the standard contract bridge deck there are eight quick tricks. The fifth suit adds two more.

Values Differ.
An ace-queen is valued at 1-2 honor tricks but must only be given the value of one quick trick. Likewise king-queen-jack equals 1-2 honor tricks, but only one quick trick. King-jack-ten equals one honor trick but is valued at one-half quick trick.

As in contract bridge, it is necessary to consider both quick tricks and secondary high card tricks. In the play of the hand, success or failure depends on the combined hand trick-taking ability. Only the actual tricks won are important, whether they be quick tricks or honor tricks or just tricks is immaterial.

Faux Pas: Influencing partner's lead by detaching a card from your hand before it is your turn to play.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

CHRONIC APPENDICITIS, EH?

From time to time some physician calls attention to the uncertainty of the diagnosis of "chronic appendicitis."

Even in cases where an X-ray picture indicates things are in a bad state in the neighborhood of the appendix the diagnosis must still be only tentative and the treatment expectant unless all hands are eager for operation, in which event the operation should be regarded as purely exploratory.

The one thing about the whole business that you may be sure of is that it is going to cost you a pretty good fee, but that is as it should be. People who demand luxuries should never squawk when paying for them.

Now it appears that a Canadian physician, having considerable spare time on his hands, decided to make use of it in a way that is popular among specialists in the United States. He prepared and distributed to 167 persons on the appendix a booklet, "Chronic Appendicitis." None of the 167 victims had experienced any relief from their symptoms after the appendectomy. None of them had ever had acute appendicitis, so far as they knew.

Well, sir, believe it or not, this Canadian doctor persuaded no less than 147 of the 167 to have another operation of the kind he thinks "chronic appendicitis" requires if operation is done at all, namely, complete removal of all so-called congenital bands and membranes from the cecum or ascending colon or hepatic flexure or any combination of these found present. And again believe it or not he reports in the Canadian Medical Association Journal for January, 1938, that of the 147 patients so operated upon 136 reported complete relief from the right side—92 per cent of cures.

I still say that anyone who suffers from what some doctor or other has called "chronic appendicitis" and who has not had one or more attacks of acute appendicitis, should walk right into the vicinity of an operating room. Especially when the eager surgeon exhibits an X-ray negative and points out the unmistakable signs of trouble in the appendix. X-ray evidence is significant in a case of alleged "chronic appendicitis" only when it is negative, that is, when the picture shows normal conditions in the appendix region—that's a sign you can forget the appendix and look further for an explanation for the symptoms.

In many instances masked peptic ulcer may be the cause of the "chronic appendicitis." Not a bad idea to have a try at a suitable peptic ulcer diet and alkalis to neutralize excessive acidity in such cases; especially when pain, distress, feeling of "gases" in stomach recurs regularly at 11 p. m. and 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, in a man aged 30 or thereabouts. Suitable peptic ulcer diet instructions mailed on request (not a clipping) if you inclose 3-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Grade.

Kindly advise what is the difference between Grade A and Grade B milk. Until now have given child, aged two years, only evaporated milk, because of scurvy, but would like to know which grade of fresh milk to give him now. (Mrs. H. F.)

Answer—Grade A milk is the only grade fit for feeding children. Grade B is suitable for cooking.

White and Yolk.

Once you published an article on the comparative value of the white and yolk of egg. I'd like to get a copy. (Mrs. W. H.)

Answer—I regret I have no copy available. Most of the nourishment of an egg is in the yolk.

Bronchitis.
Much interested in your article telling of the excellent results New York physicians obtained from X-ray treatment of bronchitis. Could one get such treatment from a legal doctor or do only certain specialists give it? (Mrs. D. H.)

Answer—Any physician who practices in the field of radiology (X-ray) can give such treatment. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

ESTIMATE MATERIAL CUT AND FIT BASTE AND ADJUST

"To think I've wanted slip covers for months and was afraid to try making them myself!"

In a jiffy Mrs. Barrett has transformed her old chair and ottoman with this smart two-fabric style—With plain beige crash she combined a gay plaid of pimiento red and royal blue on a beige ground—trimmed the bottom edge with a saucy box-pleated frill of plaid.

The seams are bound in pimiento red crash—striking and practical. Too. When heavy sitters strain the cover, these bindings—cut in the bias—help the seams to take it.

Easy for you to make such a slip cover, adapt it to any style chair or sofa.

First step—measure as the small sketch shows. Begin at the back, work to the bottom of the apron in front, then over the arms and down the sides. For the average four-year piece use 5 to 7 yards of 50-inch material.

To make, lay the material smoothly over the upholstery, right side up for bound seams. Pin down every three inches. Where the back and arms round, take little folds or darts.

Cut 1 1-2 inches outside the lines. Baste, try on, trim seams. Now stitch, sew on the binding and frill. You've finished!

The ottoman you cover the same easy way. Make the top from the plaid, the brief apron from the beige crash. Bind the seams, finish with a plaid frill as you did the chair cover.

You can't go wrong when you follow the step-by-step directions and diagrams given in our 40-page booklet, "Making Slip Covers Successfully." Tips, color schemes, materials, trimmings; upholstered covers.

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

NEWS FROM THE STUDIOS.

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—Yvonne, Cecile, Marie, Annette and Emilie Dionne reach the grand total of four years apiece May 28. Exactly one week later, the girls go before the camera for their third picture, "Five of a Kind," with the good Dr. Dafoe once again impersonated by Jean Hersholt.

"Five of a Kind," for which the girls receive their usual stipend of $100,000—tells of a newspaperwoman, Claire Trevor, sent to Calender to interview the quintuplets. The famous five will sing and dance for the first time on the screen. Sidney Clare, who wrote "The Good Ship Lollipop" and "The Song of the Lark," is responsible for the songs. One of the latter, "All Mixed Up," has already been mastered by the quintuplets. The babies will also sing a song in French.

The flesh and blood Dr. Dafoe will be with his charges throughout the entire running of the picture, from two to five weeks—depending upon how quickly the quintuplets learn their lines. Their actual working day consists of only one hour before the cameras, from 11 to 12 o'clock. As befits growing young ladies, the girls get five or six changes of very elegant costumes.

When Joan Bennett refused the leading feminine role in "Mother Carey's Chickens," R-K-O-Radio retaliated by erasing her name from "Gunga Din," the studio's biggest production of the year. Another Joan has been substituted—Joan Fontaine, who appears as the love interest opposite Cary Grant. It would seem that this writer's plea for more opportunities for the starlets is bearing fruit. Jack Oakie and Victor McLaglen are also in the cast.

Universal announces 40 pictures for the 1938-39 program. Among them, three Deanna Durbin films, two for Danielle Darrieux, another for Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, and Margaret Sullivan, who will be starred in "Service De Luxe."

Jane Withers is keeping very busy with "Down to Earth," to be followed by "Salomy Jane," to be followed by "Fidelity," which was all set for Joan Crawford's next picture, has been temporarily postponed—censorship trouble. And writing is now being rushed on "The Shining Hour," which will probably supersede "Fidelity." Twentieth Century-Fox is readying a picture based on the life of Edwin Booth, with Tyrone Power in the title role. . . . Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey will be starred in "Bahalaika," a musical comedy with a Russian revolution background. . . . Carole Lombard heads the cast for Selznick International in "Made for Each Other," from the story by Rose Franken.

Yet another "Life of—" for Paul Muni—this time "The Life of William Tell." Jackie Cooper supplies juvenile love interest in Deanna Durbin's next picture, "That Certain Age." John Halliday portrays Deanna's father. . . . Eddie G. Robinson will be the Earl in "The Earl of Chicago"—but he still will be a screen crook. . . . Gene Autry and Republic have kissed and made up, and Gene starts making those singing westerns again. His first—"The Man From Music Mountain." . . . Hot competition for the second feminine role in "The Sisters," starring Bette Davis. The choice has narrowed down to Anita Louise and Olivia De Havilland. . . . Which reminds me that Miss De Havill-

Sepia swinger of classical music Maxine Sullivan has an important part in Paramount's "St. Louis Blues," a musical with George Raft and Shirley Ross. . . . Walter Connolly appears as Clark Gable's boss in "Too Hot To Handle" (the story of a nervous camera man's life). Which reminds me that Sol Wurtzel is planning a whole series of stories based on this profession, with Brian Donlevy and Wally Vernon as the brave filmers of world events. . . . Pat O'Brien is begging his Warner Brothers bosses to let him play General Grant in the screen story based on the great soldier's life. . . . Joel McCrea and Andrea Leeds will star in "Youth Takes a Fling." (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

PLEASANT HOMES

By ELIZABETH M'RAE BOYKIN.

GINGHAMS FOR SLIP COVERS.

Seeing Was Believing.
Because if anybody has told us that plaid gingham would do for slip covers in quite a formal living room, we'd probably have smiled politely, but dubiously. But we saw them, and thought they were as smart as veils on spring hats.

Jade and Cellophane.
The room has gunmetal walls and a pale beige rug to begin. Woodwork is ivory with jade green though most of the furniture is mahogany. In the winter for furniture coverings are in formal brocade, and so are the draperies. But for summer the windows get off-white rayon curtains with a cellophane thread through them and the draped valances are of plaid gingham in jade green and off-white.

This same gingham covers the sofa and a pair of winged chairs. The other upholstered furniture is in a textured green with thick moss fringe in the seams. The lamp shades all got pleated white organdy petticoats over them for summer, tied with jade grosgrain ribbon.

Pink With Navy.
Another unexpected, but successful room for summer, began with pink and white striped wall paper. Its windows went down, and white sisal rug went down. Several of the slip covers were in quilted navy blue, a pair of chairs were in flowered chintz, predominantly pink, to match the summer curtains.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondents' names are held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield in care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: When I was 16 I quit school to work because my parents weren't financially able to support me. I paid my board and all went well until recently I took a big cut in wages which makes it impossible for me to pay what I formerly did. They accuse me of spending my money on girls which is not the case. If I date they nag me. If I borrow money they nag me, telling me that I should stay at home like other boys so I wouldn't be spending all I make. I want to please them but it's not very pleasant at home when all you hear is complaints. You will know what I should do. H. M.

Answer: Well, Buddie, generally speaking, when a boy is rolling his own he should say where and how his money goes. On the other hand, the boy that's working and living at home, paying only part of his board and keep has an obligation to his mother and father which should be paid before he goes dating, spending his money on the girls. To get a clear picture of your situation just suppose that you hadn't a home but had to rent a room and buy your meals out of pocket, would there be enough left for movies and amusements, two tickets for each?

There's never any excuse for nagging even on the part of parents, but somebody should tell you that borrowing is a bad habit which, if indulged, will fasten itself upon you and make you a nuisance to all who know you well enough to be touched. The one thing that a business man to borrow from the bank that stands to lend money on collateral and quite another for a wage earner to borrow from family or friends. If they have been thrifty enough to save money, they have a place to put it and they shouldn't have to pass it over to a shiftless boy who spends more than he makes.

It was manly and fine of you to go to work to help your parents; yet if you don't form the habit of saving, you will go through life as they are going: strapped, embarrassed, dependent on others to help them rear their family. If you want to be more successful than your father has been there's one thing you must do: learn what you earn and save something for the day of reduced wages.

Andrew Carnegie said that the young man who didn't save a part of the first dollar he earned wouldn't save any part of his first thousand dollars. He started out as a poor wage earner and ended up with millions; not necessarily because he was a business genius (though he was) but because he worked hard and saved his money.

As for the girl friends, you should confide in them, tell them that you are in a financial jam and will have to suspend all but free dates. They will appreciate your predicament and respect your dignity when money's tight and credit non-existent. Furthermore, this plan will satisfy your parents and you will find them much more agreeable housemates.

A boy has plenty of chances at the girls but only one chance at success.

Your Figure, Madame

NOVEL DIET APT TO PROVE MONOTONOUS.

Yes, we have the banana diet . . . And it will help you to lose from three to four pounds a week. If you think it would be easier to take bananas and milk three times a day, rather than to follow a varied diet—go ahead! The banana and skim milk diet is not in the same class with such faddy menus as the Hollywood Eighteen Day Diet.

Once I wrote that I would not give the Hollywood Eighteen Day Diet to my worst enemy, and by the next mail came a letter from a lady asking wouldn't I please make an exception in her case. She said she couldn't stay on a diet anyway and always ate more than the diet allowed, so she thought it would be all right for her. But even if she did eat more than allowed by the diet, it would not be all right. More than likely the increase would not be in the form of the protective foods and she would be on a poor diet without losing weight.

People with certain temperaments know no middle road. They must either starve or gorge. Reducing is always a struggle, and if a novel type of menu helps you to get started on your slimming program . . . well, bananas and milk won't hurt you!

The menu consist of four to six bananas and three to four glasses of skim milk or buttermilk daily. For a light breakfast you take one banana and a glass of skim milk, and a sumptuous dinner of two bananas and a glass of skim milk. If you wish, you may have a fourth glass of skim milk and another banana during the day. Sounds like a lot of bananas to me! To the luncheon and dinner menus, spinach, lettuce or raw cabbage should be added to supply bulk.

There are advantages to this type of menu. First there is ease with which it can be prepared, and then there is the fact that it practically measures itself. One banana is just one banana and one glass of skim milk or buttermilk is an exact measure, so you can't overstep the calorie allowance on servings. Also, bananas have a high satiety value, since they leave the stomach very slowly. All of which means you do not get so hungry between bananas. Of course, there are some disadvantages. To put it mildly the diet is monotonous, and another disadvantage is that

'It Is Not Every Day Ye Can Buy Beauty,' Said the Flower Woman

DUBLIN, Ireland.—(By Mail).—Having seen the Grand National at Aintree, there was, of course, nothing else to do except see the races at Punchestown, out from Dublin. They are the most famous races in Ireland.

So, I climbed onto a bus which smelled of tobacco and Irish whisky, and went out to the races. It was a drive of about 14 miles and right through some of the beautiful hills about Dublin. Dublin is a mournful city, in a manner of speaking, but still a jolly one. No one loves horses as do the Irish and to really see them you must see them at the races.

That day at Aintree, which is just out of Liverpool, the setting was beautiful and colorful and I don't think I've seen a grander sight than the field lined up for the start with a bright sun on the silks and the horses. Around the gates, though, it wasn't so nice. Aintree is out from Liverpool and maybe you would find worse slums than those of Liverpool, but again, maybe not. There were old toothless women out in front with small babies in shawls. It was raining and cold and the fact they told me the babies were "plants" and carried for effect, didn't change the fact that they likely were cold and rain-soaked and hungry. The women were selling programs and cakes and things.

At Dublin and at Punchestown it was different. The same poverty was there. At least, I guess it was. But it was the poverty of the gypsies and of the Irish. And the Irish can take poverty better than anyone else. The gypsies were a sight to see. They were camped about there with their little fires and their caravans.

PHILOSOPHY IN RAGS.

There was an Irish woman selling bits of heather and when she came up, graceful in her old rags, I said, in truth, that I had no change.

"God bless you, and more's the pity for both of us," she said, smiling.

So, of course, I got some change and some heather and another "God bless you."

I was carrying an overcoat which had become too much of a burden because of a sun. And at the gate I said, searching for the ticket, "I've got too much in my hands."

"Sure, now, and that's a fact," said the gate-keeper with a grin, "but it would be much worse if ye had it not at all."

This was fact, because it is much better to have an overcoat, even if it is in the way, than not to have one at all. Anyhow, I went on in. The stone fences in the jumps—real stone fences—are something to write about. And the horses and the betting are all good stories. But somehow, at Punchestown, there seemed to be more thinking of the horses and more of an air of races than the great day at Aintree. Maybe it was the sight of the gypsies and the temperament of the people. Or the philosophy in rags.

Coming out, and near the bus, there was a woman selling flowers and when I shook my head, she said: "It is not every day ye can buy beauty."

So, I bought some flowers, being a sucker for such sayings. At Aintree one bought the programs with a sort of rage at the poverty and a sort of pity that saddened the day. At Punchestown you got the same poverty but it had smiles and it gave a bit of philosophy along with the rags. So that one went into the race course smiling and feeling that it was an afternoon for fun.

On the way back to town the bus smelled just as strong of tobacco and Irish whisky. On the front seat a young servant girl was telling a boy friend about winning 10 shillings. And on the seat next me a red-faced man, who smelled of both the ingredients mentioned above, told me he lost 50 pounds on the last race.

The smells and the talks reminded me very much of Churchill Downs. Nothing else did.

In the town, the hotels were filled, but there was none of the madness of Derby eve or Derby day at Churchill Downs. The Irish, I think, come to Dublin for the races. Just the races.

KAY HEMPHILL, PAGE ARE ADDED TO CURTIS TEAM

Hill, Cheney, Goldthwaite, Dropped by U. S. G. A. Women.

By LESLIE AVERY.
NEW YORK, May 11.—(UP)—A powerful Curtis cup team, including two newcomers from the Carolinas, was named tonight by the women's committee of the United States Golf Association to oppose Britain's best feminine shotmakers in the fourth of the international series to be played over the Essex County Club links at Manchester, Mass., September 7 and 8.

National Champion Mrs. Julius A. Page Jr., the former Estelle Lawson, of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., semi-finalist in the women's national for the past two years, were the only additions to the team that was held to a tie in the last of the biennial series at Glenglass, Scotland, in 1936.

Completing the lineup of the 1938 Curtis squad were Mrs. Glenna Collette Vane Jr., Philadelphia; Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J.; Miss Patty Berg, Minneapolis; Charlotte Glutting, Rock Spring, N. J.; Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky.; and Miss Frances Stebbins, non-playing captain from Newton, Mass., who was chairman of the U. S. G. A. women's committee in 1932 and '33.

Dropped from the 1938 Curtis team, with "no comment" from the committee, were Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. L. D. Cheney, San Gabriel, Cal.; and Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, of Fort Worth, Texas. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Cheney both had been members of the three previous teams and Mrs. Goldthwaite had belonged to the last two, occupying a reserve berth last year and not playing.

Mrs. Vane and Miss Orcutt are the veterans of this year's squad, both having been members of the three previous Curtis teams.

The United States never has lost a Curtis match, and will be seeking its third triumph.

SPEED DRIVERS IN GRUDGE RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 11.—(UP)—Rex Mays, Glendale, Cal., and "Wild Bill" Cummings, Indianapolis, will stage a match race, unprecedented in Indianapolis motor speedway history, Sunday to settle an argument over who is the better racing car driver.

The race was sanctioned today by speedway officials. It will be run for a reported $1,000 side bet. Conditions will be similar to those encountered in spring competition rather than the 500-mile Memorial Day classic May 30.

Three heats will be run, the first at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, the second at 2 o'clock and a third, if necessary, at 4 o'clock. The best two of three heats will decide the winner. The first two heats will be 15 miles—and the third will be 10 laps, or 25 miles.

It all started when Bill White, Los Angeles sportsman and Mays' backer in the Memorial Day classic, argued with Cotton Henning, racing manager for Mike Boyle, of Chicago, that his man was a better driver than Cummings top pilot in the Boyle stable. The match race was decided on as a means of settling the controversy.

The match race will be timed by the same electric apparatus used in the big race May 30.

PLOWBOY POPE MEETS HACKNEY

Ladies will be admitted free to the wrestling matches Friday night at the Northside Tennis Club stadium when three all-star matches will be presented by Promoters Frank Betts and Nat Jones. The first match gets under way at 8:30 o'clock.

In a scientific match where nothing but straight, clean wrestling will be seen, Honey Boy Hackney, Dallas scissor king, meets Eddie Pope, North Carolina plowboy.

Pope, like Hackney, has bowled over all opposition since making his debut here several weeks ago. Neither wrestler has lost a match in the past six months, and local followers of the game are assured one of the fastest bouts attempted here in several years.

The semifinal match pairs Gentleman John Mauldin, Atlanta's meanest man, against Wild Bill Collins, College Park terror, in a good old-fashion grudge bout. Dr. Ralph Smith, Tennessee chiropractor, meets Nick Burns, Chicago German, in the 30-minute opening match.

Vines Vs. Budgel

Perry Trailing Ellsworth in Long Series, Expected to Drop Out if He Loses, With Lanky Don Turning Pro, Taking His Place.

By Jack Troy

A genuine feud exists between Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry in their professional tennis tour, according to Al Ennis, who is here in behalf of the exhibition which will be staged Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Perry, former amateur champion of the world, apparently doesn't see the cold-blooded pro attitude of anything-to-win. He apparently doesn't think it is cricket to be the victim of Vines' cannon-ball services and vicious passing shots.

Vines is no clinging vine of tennis. He is what is known to the trade as a "money player." He wants to win. And frequently does in their tour.

It so happens that Vines is now nine-up on Perry for the season, with some 15 matches yet to be played.

This just about clinches the title for Vines. For Perry hardly could get on top with the championship virtually in Elly's grasp.

Last year they played 74 matches and each won 37. It irked Perry when Vines was described as the world's professional champion.

"It does look as if we should divide the crown a bit, since I did win as many matches," Perry protested.

But there won't be any question about who's king of the courts this season. And there is more at stake than simply the glory or prestige of being recognized as the champ.

Decide Partner For Don Budgel

There'll probably be an all-California rivalry in pro net circles next year. For it is understood that the loser of this year's tour will drop out.

That will leave Vines to carry on the battle with Don Budgel, the California Red Head, who is due to turn pro after this season.

It should make for quite an attraction.

Molly Williamson Says All Is Set

Molly Williamson, the super-dreadnaught of Atlanta tennis, dropped by with Al Ennis, who says to just drop the "T" out of tennis and you have his name right.

Molly said everything is set for a great exhibition. "Atlanta fans are well acquainted with Vines and this will give them a chance to see Perry in action."

"The feud is the real McCoy, according to Mr. Ennis. He should know. He has been around with them for two years."

The competition certainly is of the keenest sort, for, as pointed out, the loser won't tour next year.

Helen Vinson To Be Here

Beauteous Helen Vinson, of the movies, will be here with husband, Frederick Perry. She has been to see Perry in action.

Crackers St. p Barons, 6-3, for Even Break in 4-Game Series

BECKMAN HURLS STEADILY TO WIN 4TH GAME OF YEAR

Bolling and Hill Pole Out Home Runs in Finale at Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 11.—The Crackers pulled out for New Orleans Wednesday night where a new second baseman, Russ Peters, will join them.

And when they left, they took an even break in four games played with the Barons at Rickwood. Pounding two Barons hurlers, George Hockette and Julian Tubbs, the Crackers won the fourth and final game of the series, 6 to 3.

Bill Beckman went the route for the Crackers to win his third game, although he, too, was touched rather freely. He gave up 11 hits, five of which came in the first two innings.

ROUT HOCKETTE.

George Hockette, a local boy, who was counted upon as a Barons starter before the season opened, after about eliminated himself as a beginner when, for the sixth straight time, he failed to last the night.

Hockette, victim of Jack Bolling's inside-the-park homer in the first, paved the way for three more cracker tallies in the second and then gave way to Julian Tubbs, other Birmingham boy. Hill's double and singles by Rose, Beckman and Maudin figured in the tally.

Birmingham scored two after Tubbs were out in the second on McCullough's double and singles by Bob and Bluege.

Emil Mallo and Heinie Majeski, with the help of the Barons infield, pulled one for the books in the third. Mallo hit a high fly at Majeski was under easily. As matter of form, Mallo started to circle the bases back to the batter dugout, presuming Majeski would make the catch. He didn't though, and Mallo was an easy trap between second and third.

Atlanta made another tally in the fourth when, with two gone, Maudin doubled and scored on Bolling's second hit.

BARONS SCORE.

The Barons got it back in their fifth, however, when Thompson singled, went to third on Tubbs' second single and scored after the catch on Bluege's outfield fly. Maudin and Hill supplied a mild treat for the Crackers in the fifth, with singling, but neither scored. Jack Glynn, new Barons outfielder, made one of the greatest runs in one-handed catches ever seen in Rickwood when he robbed Maudin of a home run 440 feet from home plate in deep center, after two were out in the sixth. Rubeling robbed Tubbs of his third hit by leaping high over second in the last half.

Tubbs retired his eighth straight batter to end the seventh and to be outdone, Beckman did the same thing. Johnny Hill got his third hit byacking a home run into the right field stands as first up in the eighth. Rose got the second single, nothing else happened. Scott got the tenth Barons hit in the eighth but he died on first. Douglas, first up for the locals in the ninth, hit a triple to deep center. But the next three men went to the showers.

Johnny Hill led the Crackers' attack with a homer, a double and a single in four times up.

Chivington Handcuffs Auburn With 4 Hits; Tech Wins, 6-2

JACKETS SCORE FOUR IN FIRST TO CINCH GAME

Swindle Hurls Well for Tigers; Teams Play Again Today.

By TOM MRAE.

A four-run spurge in the first inning was enough to give Georgia Tech a 6-2 victory over Auburn yesterday on the Rose Bowl Field. The Jackets got their two runs in the first, while the Plainsmen scored one in the second and another in the third.

Both pitchers were in rare form. Chivington allowed Auburn four hits and struck out nine while Swindle gave up five safe hits, one a homer by Harry Appleby, and fanned seven.

Appleby's circuit clout came in the second with Juno Page, who walked, on base.

Malvern Morgan, Auburn first baseman, hit what for a moment looked like a homer but it turned out to be a triple when really fine play work caught Morgan at the plate on a close play. Ector fielded the ball, tossed it to Page, who threw it to Gibson. Gibson made excellent throw to Appleby at plate.

BUSY IN FIRST.

The Jackets got busy in the first. Page was safe on Gibson's error and was sacrificed to second by Appleby. Ebdon fled to centerfield. With two out, Gibson hit a hard single over the first baseman's head, scoring Page. Ebdon went to second on the throw-in.

In an attempt to catch Gibson second, Bennett let the ball get through his glove and Gibson went third. Jordan walked. Gibson worked a double steal, scoring and Jordan scampering back to first safely. Nixon hit a hard single through short when Auburn tried, unsuccessfully, to get Jordan at third. Ebdon went to second. Jones scored both runners with a single. Ebdon fled out, ending the inning.

Auburn scored one in the second. Hayes singled. Gibson threw a grounder. Hayes hit to third and Grisham to second. Whitten singled, scoring Hayes.

AUBURN SCORES.

Auburn got another in the third. Riddle hit a powerful drive which Jones knocked down but saw wild at first, allowing Riddle to go to second. Riddle took on a passed ball. Morgan kicked. On a double steal Nixon saw the ball into the dirt, allowing Riddle to score and Morgan to go to third. Chivington kicked Kenmore and Hayes to the bases. Grisham lined to end the inning.

In the last six innings only 19 hits were scored. Coach Bobby Dodd said Jim Bitt would pitch for Tech today in the final game of the season. Dell Morgan was undecided between Charlie Kilpatrick or his Diamond.

Never let it be said that Coach Alex is unfair in his betting. Alex is betting Bo Johnston his grade in physics is higher than his batting average for the season. Georgia Tech operatives that Bo, even in the broadest of terms, is not an ambitious scholar, and with only three games, Coach Alex looks the winner. Bo figures that one hit, if he could only get would turn the tide in his favor. Bo roughly estimates his batting average as 60.

ACKNEY FIGHTS SMITH TONIGHT

In all-star card of three main events will be offered local wrestling followers tonight at the Lyndale arena, the first match ending under way promptly at 8 o'clock. Ladies will be admitted free.

The promoters were at a loss as to who they could sign up to meet the Boy Hackney. Dallas Schilling, until it was suggested many of the fans they put him with Dr. Ralph Smith, a Tennessee chiropractic wrestler, seems destined to get a shot at the world's light heavyweight champion this summer. At least is what he has been promised he keeps going at the present.

In a grudge battle, two of the best wrestlers ever to don a pair of trunks will meet in the final when Wild Bill Collins, of Park terror, tears into Red, an ace Chattanooga exponent in the knock-down drag-out wrestling game.

The opening match should see a lot of spills and rough tactics in Chippewa Charlie, Cherokee, meets Tiger Joe Ferona, an wrestler.

Charlie Hamby Wins Alabama Rifle Title

Atlantan Uses Borrowed Gun for Record; Eyes Switzerland Trip With U. S. Team in '39.

By THAD HOLT.

Back from Birmingham where he used a borrowed gun to win the Alabama State Rifle Association championship Saturday and Sunday with a record aggregate score of 2,384 out of a possible 2,400, Charlie Hamby, member of the Atlanta Rifle Club team and sixth ranking shooter in the nation, today focused his keen eyes on the forthcoming defense of his title in the sixth annual north Georgia small bore tournament at Fort McPherson on May 28-29, and probable entrance in the nation tournament at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September, with a view to winning a berth on the United States team which sails in June of 1939 for the international championship at Lucerne, Switzerland.

Using a gun as strange to him as the chant of the tobacco auctioneer, Hamby won two individual firsts, two seconds and two thirds against the fast field at Birmingham. Hamby was third in the trophy match which called for 20 shots at 50 and 20 at 100 yards, any sights. A. R. Pryor, of Birmingham, the winner in that event, also had a 398, but outranked the Atlantan.

Atlanta's dead-eye-dick was second to E. P. Menzen in a match of 40 shots at 50 meters, each having a 398 score, but Hamby again was outranked. Incidentally, if you are not a rifle-shoot fan, we'll try, in the inexpert way that is ours, to explain it somewhere along the line.

In a two-man team match, Hamby and Menzen licked the field with 794 out of 800 targets being hit on the kisser.

In an event of 40 shots at 100 yards, any sights, Hamby was first and Menzen second, each blasting a 390, but this time Mr. Hamby did the outranking.

OUTRANKED AGAIN.

Hamby took third place in the individual Dewar match, 20 shots at 50 and 20 shots at 100 yards. His score was the same as that of Paul Schiller, the winner, but you guessed it—he was outranked.

Now seems as good a time as any to try and explain this "outranked business." The target at a distance of 100 yards has what is called a ten-ring of two inches in diameter and an x-ring of one inch in diameter. At 50 yards, the ten-ring diameter to eighty-nine hundredths of an inch in diameter and the x-ring three-eighths of an inch. If a shooter hits the x-ring more times than his rival, his score will be no higher than his adversary, even if his foe fails to hit the x-ring even once. But the performer who hits the x-ring more often is declared winner, in case of a tie.

Hamby has hit the x-ring at 100 yards as many as 47 times out of 50, but he doubts if 50 have ever been hit—even by machine shooting. The gun manufacturers plant the gun in a sort of concrete base and fire away, but no gun is that true or consistent. And so we see how far along the current crop of rifle experts have come. They are as good or better than machine shooting. From this angle, it would appear that the rifle shooter has progressed to a state of near perfection. Certainly he is further along than is the bowler in his respective competition, the basketball hoop artist, the field goal kicker and the baseball hitter.

BACK TO BIRMINGHAM.

Back to Birmingham: Hamby and Menzen won the two-team match at 100 yards, any sights, 40 shots per man. Their score was 794. He was second to L. F. Shiffert in the 50-meter match of 40 shots, each amassing a 397 total.

Hamby's 394, scored on 20 shots at 100 yards and 20 at 200 yards, any sights, won the Montgomery Rifle Club trophy. A decimal target was used at 200 yards. There are people who couldn't hit a school-house with a cannon at 200 yards. Speaking of school houses, school books say a decimal is a period. A decimal target then couldn't be bigger than an ant's eye.

The Atlanta phenom hopes to raise his national ranking, but to do so, he must compete in at least two major tournaments and in 10 individual events in each meet. Only a pressure of business will keep him out of the required number of tournaments. Charlie was sort of hoping that Mr. Henry Grady, his employer at the Southern Engraving Company, would chance to read about his ambitions in this morning's Constitution.

Charlie already is practicing on his Swiss dialect. He thinks it might come in handy one day in 1939. That Switzerland trip is Hamby's target. And he hopes to hit it, even if it is under the x-ring.

Thesz Beats Piers; Roche and Cox Draw

Louis Thesz, former world's champion from St. Louis, defeated Henry Piers, Holland, in the final bout of a wrestling card at Warren arena last night. The bout ended after the first fall which lasted 40 minutes. Piers injuring his shoulder in a fall from the ring.

Dorv Roche and Bad Joe Cox battled to a lively draw, each winning a fall in the hour-limit match. Roche was fined for striking Referee Tiny Ruff, but since he struck Ruff after the bell ending the match, the decision stood. Roche was fined by the State Athletic Commission.

Billy Bartush tossed Ernest Kelly in the opener, which lasted 27 minutes.

BLACK CRACKERS PLAY BARON NINE

Everything is in readiness for the official opening of the negro southern baseball league at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon. The Atlanta Black Crackers clash with the Birmingham Black Barons at 3:30 o'clock, and a complete program of pre-game features has been billed.

This is the first year that the Atlantans have held full membership in the league, and the Black Crackers have met some of the best negro teams in the country in practice games to date. They have played the two top teams in the league, and should be able to take the Barons in stride.

Manager Nish Williams will probably start "Slim" Reese, one of his ace hurlers, on the mound, and since there is not another

BUFORD BLANKS BAKERS, 4 TO 0

BUFORD, Ga., May 11.—"Slab" Wynn, right-hander obtained from Cedartown two weeks ago, hurled excellent ball for the Bona Allen nine here tonight, giving the American Bakers, from Atlanta, just four hits as the Buford team won, 4 to 0.

Wynn held his foes hitless until the fifth inning when he allowed one single. He gave up another in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings. Wynn did not walk a man, struck out eight, including three in the ninth inning after the first man had singled and stole second. That was the only time an Atlantan reached second during the entire game.

Fuller, American Bakers hurler, gave up but seven hits,

A TIMELY WARNING, PUBLISHED IN THE INTEREST OF PUBLIC SAFETY BY THE TIRE DIVISION OF THE RUBBER MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

Action is Needed to Halt the Hand of Fate

MILLIONS of MOTORISTS are driving on tires that are UNSAFE!

A survey, just completed, indicates that 59 million tires now in use are smooth or will become smooth during 1938. Many of these are unsafe. Unless these dangerous tires are replaced, millions of motorists will be taking needless chances. Why risk human life for those last few extra miles?

Replace OLD, SMOOTH TIRES during

National TIRE SAFETY WEEK

May 14-21

TODAY, the problem of driving safety is of paramount importance to your welfare, and that of millions of Americans.

Automobile manufacturers are answering this problem by building into their cars each year every known device to assure safe motoring. Tire manufacturers are answering it by constant research and development that enables them to build tires that are safer and safer.

But despite the intensive efforts of both car maker and tire maker there is one grave danger over which only you have control—the menace of OLD, SMOOTH TIRES!

That's why tire manufacturers have banded together to institute National Tire Safety Week. To show motorists everywhere the unnecessary risk of driving on old, smooth tires—the utter foolhardiness of trying to obtain those "few extra miles."

Don't tempt fate. If you have only one smooth tire on your car, replace it today and protect your family, yourself, other motorists and pedestrians. Or better still, have your nearby tire dealer give all your tires a free safety check-up for hidden danger spots.

And remember this—in America today you get the finest quality tires at the lowest prices—ten times longer tire life than you got in the old days at one-quarter of the cost.

Buy the tires you need now. Your purchase will add to your personal safety. Why not see your dealer about safe, new tires today!

INSTALLMENT XXXII.
Mr. Brewster slipped quietly out of the bedroom. And downstairs. And out of the house. What- ever prudence counseled, he was going to walk over to Cole Lester. It would be worth some risk to see Algy Somers arrested.

He took a short cut across the fields which would reduce the distance from five miles to three. The path presently skirted a deserted quarry and came by way of a rough cart track out upon the high road again.

Algy Somers looked up from the letter he was trying to write and said, "Come in." The knock which he thought he had heard was so weak and hesitating that it might have been any chance sound. He was therefore faintly surprised when the door opened and displayed William in a condition of acute embarrassment.

"Yes," said Algy. "What is it?" William stood and twisted the handle. It went sharply through Algy's mind that the police had come to arrest him, and that William knew it. He managed a smile, and said, "Out with it, William. What is it?"

William came a hesitating step into the room. "If you please, sir," he said, "I have a word with you, sir."

Relief rushed in on Algy. So it wasn't his arrest—not yet. He said cheerfully, "As many as you like. What's up, man? Why are you dithering?"

"I don't rightly know how to begin, sir."

"Begin at the beginning. What's it all about anyway?"

William turned bright plum color. "I've got a young lady, sir."

Algy nearly said, "So have I," but it seemed well to keep William to the point if possible, so he substituted an encouraging "That sounds all right."

"She works at the Hand and Flower at Railing," said William. Algy sat up and began to take notice.

"The duce she does! Well, that's very interesting. What about it?"

"It don't seem as if I ought to hold my tongue," William said.

"Then I shouldn't." Algy laughed a little grimly. "I don't suppose any of us wanted to be drawn into it."

"No, sir. All very well on the pictures murders are, but close at hand there's something 'orrid about them to my way of thinking."

Two minds with but a single thought," said Algy. "Now what about coming to the point—getting the stuff off the chest?"

William produced the handkerchief and mopped his glistening brow. "Sunday nights when I have my evening out I go over to Railing, but Sunday nights when I don't my young lady comes over here, and if I can slip out we do a bit of walk up and down in the lane, and last night—"

"You slipped out?"

"Yes, sir. And Ellen she says to me—her name is Ellen Hawkins and she's got a married sister that keeps a toy-shop in Railing—very nice people they are, and Ellen she's at the Hand and Flower—"

"What did she say?"

"Well, she hadn't heard about Mr. Sturrock being shot. She'd had the afternoon off from 4 o'clock, so she wasn't there when the police came, and she didn't know nothing about it, and she says, 'Oh, William, she says, 'how 'orrid! I wouldn't ha' come over if I'd ha' known.' And 'It don't seem hardly right, and you'll have to take me home, for I won't go by myself and that's flat,' she says, so I done it."

"Is that all?" said Algy after a prolonged pause.

William shook his head. "Oh, no, sir. We got talking while we was going along like that, and she told me something, and I told her she didn't ought to keep it to herself."

"Well, what did she say?"

"Well, she put it this way, sir—if the police come and asked her, she'd be bound to tell them, and if they didn't get her, then it wasn't none of her business. And look what come to poor Mr. Sturrock," she says. 'You won't make me nor anyone else believe that he didn't know something,' she says, 'And I wish I'd had my tongue and not told you anything,' she says."

"What did she tell you?" said Algy.

"Well, sir, it was her afternoon off like I told you, and she was all dressed to go, and she slipped in to have a look at one of the papers there—something about the pattern of a dress she seen the picture of and was wanting to copy and she wasn't sure she'd got it right."

"Well, then she got a fright. She heard voices in the passage, and one of them was Mr. Rudge, the proprietor. She didn't want him to find her there, so she stepped behind the curtain, which was a right-down silly thing to do, because it made her look as if she was doing something wrong. She took a look through the curtain, and the talking had stopped, and then she got another fright, because Mr. Sturrock come into the room. He walked over to the table and stood looking down at the papers that was on it, and Ellen thought whatever should she do if he was going to stay. But he didn't. He went back to the door and looked along the passage, and after a minute he went out, and Ellen she come out from behind the curtain, but when she got to the door, there was Mr. Sturrock in the telephone booth right opposite, and she durstn't pass him, so she stayed where she was, and that's how it come that she heard what he was saying."

"Those booths are supposed to be sound-proof, aren't they?"

"This one isn't, sir, because the door doesn't fit. There's a radiator quite near, and the wood's shrunk, so it won't stay shut, not all the way down. And Ellen says she heard Mr. Sturrock say, 'Is that you?' and she says she heard him name a name."

"What name?"

"And she heard him say, 'I've got to see you,' and then something about some letters and it's being worth his while. She says she didn't pay any particular attention because of watching her opportunity to slip out, but she does remember Mr. Sturrock saying, 'It'll have to be in the house I won't come out to meet you, you know why. You bring me money, and I'll have the letter ready for you.' And then she, her chance because he turned clear away from her, and she ran for—"

"You said she heard a name?"

William lost some of his ruc color.

"Mr. Sturrock was shot, sir, like to make sure about Ellen's coming to any harm."

"She can have police protection. She'll have to speak—she'll have to say what she knows. Come, man, give me the name!"

William gulped. "Ellen she heard Mr. Sturrock say, 'Is that you?' and she heard him name a name, and she says it was Rooster."

Algy sat quite stiff for about a minute. Then he said, "What was that?"

"Rooster, sir."

There was another silence. Then Algy got up. His mind felt as if his tongue felt stiff, but managed to say, "Thank you very much, William."

Algy left William and went downstairs to the study, where he rang up Railing place and as if he could speak to Mr. Monty Lushington. He thought it would add an ironic touch to the situation if Brewster were presently inquire whether he could take message. Instead, Monty's voice rather stiff and chilly:

"What is it?"

"Algy Somers speaking, sir. I want to come over and see you at once, if I may. I've just heard something which I think is tremendously important. I think ought to know what it is before I give it to the police. I can't tell you about it on the telephone. May I come over? It's—it's important."

"I think it is inadvisable," Montagu Lushington. After a moment's pause, he added, "I think you might find it difficult to get here." The line went dead.

Algy hung up at his end, thought, "That means I'm to be let alone. Monty wants to get out of the mess. I don't blame him. . . . It mightn't mean anything more than my not being allowed to leave Cole Lester."

He looked at his watch. Twenty-three minutes to 4. It was take him the best part of an hour to reach Railing place. But something had been said about a shot cut. He couldn't remember he had said it, but something had been said.

He sought out William, and cided that the short cut ought be quite easy to follow. Of course if he didn't take his car—but didn't dare.

He strolled down the drive into the lane. A very young policeman looked at him uncertainly and let him pass.

Algy continued to stroll up the lane, when he came to a gate to walk as fast as he could. Williams had given him two shots, and the first one took off more than a quarter of a way, for which he felt duly grateful. He climbed a stile, cut across a couple of fields, and got to the road again by way of a little wood. At about 10 minutes to 4 he was approaching the second short cut, which led past a used quarry and a number of fields to Railing place.

Mr. Brewster had arrived at about a few minutes before, was not nearly so fast a walker as Algy Somers and he had hurried himself. His thoughts were pleasant and he saved them with enjoyment. He looked idly at the quarry as he skied it. It was deep, and there were saplings growing here and there in the clefts.

SCIENCE IN DETECTIVE WORK

IV—"Black Light."

A prison warden sat in his office, reading letters written by convicted. Each prisoner was allowed to write only one letter a week, but to read the letters of all prisoners was quite a long task.

indeed. One hundred thousand them end-to-end would make about one inch.

Under the black light, the assistant saw something which had been seen before. Words glowed from the paper, and he called warden. This is what they read:

"We've got some keys and of us are going to get out of next Wednesday morning. For us in a car near the east at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning a little story is given as example of the work done by ultra-violet rays. Time and they have helped prison officials to stop escapes by learning plots in advance."

"How does a prisoner write cret words?" we may ask. Sometimes he has a small bit of invisible ink. More often uses fruit juice. With a splash of wood, or something of the he writes words on the papers which will appear plain when the person who gets the letter holds it over a fire, or uses chemical on it."

The dark rays are used in ways as well. For instance may prove that words in a have been erased and others in their place. Often they exactly what words have been rubbed out. No matter how the erasing has been done, rays can see through it."

HARTSFIELD WARNS OF $207,000 DEFICIT

Water, Police Court Revenues Down, But Liquor Fees 'Cushion' City Budget.

Rigid economy in city government during the remainder of the year was urged yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield as he pointed to the fact that the city's income is falling short of anticipated revenue.

After conferring with Comptroller B. Graham West, the mayor said if the present rate of decline continues, receipts at the end of the year will be approximately $207,000 short.

At the present rate water receipts will be deficient approximately $100,000, he said. The shortage in this department was attributed to the decline in consumption of water by large industrial users.

Recorder's Court Losing. Revenues from recorder's court have totaled only $62,694.45 for the first four months of this year, as compared with $84,310.75 last year. If the same rate should continue, the loss would amount to $66,000 at the close of the year, the mayor explained.

The city will also be required to spend an additional $24,000 on pensions this year because of an amendment by the legislature extending the deadline to April 1 and allowing approximately 400 more applicants to become members of the pension fund. A $17,000 bill for street lights is also burdening the city, he pointed out.

May Escape Deficit. Mayor Hartsfield said he planned to write a letter to members of city council revealing the financial condition of the city and calling for a tightening of the purse strings. He said no deficit is expected at the end of the year if the present warning is heeded.

Receipts from liquor licenses, which now totals $70,000, will be used to absorb the losses. However, 30 per cent of the liquor fees goes to the school department, leaving only $49,000 as a "cushion" for the city.

ECHOLS LOSES SUIT TO REGAIN CITY JOB

Police Powers Unavailing in Ouster Move Against Inspector W. P. Reed.

W. R. (Bill) Echols, chief inspector of weights and measures during the Key administration, yesterday lost his fight to regain the office from which he was removed by Mayor Hartsfield.

The state supreme court held that the ordinance creating the post provided for a four-year term and that Echols was subject to removal at the completion of his term.

Echols brought quo warranto proceedings against W. P. Reed, named to the office by Mayor Hartsfield. He contended that city council had given him police powers and therefore he could not be removed without a hearing.

RIVERS AND JONES TO TALK W. & A. RATE

Meeting at Washington May Decide Discount Dispute.

Governor Rivers said yesterday he plans to confer next Monday with Chairman Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on the discount rate on Western & Atlantic Railroad rentals ordered discounted by the general assembly.

The conference will take place in Washington. The RFC and the state have been in disagreement over the rate of discount but the Governor said he hoped to reach a solution at Monday's conference.
